'64 Trucker Dedicated To Miss Charlotte Beale

Until a few years ago the guidance program in high school was a phase of school work that was somewhat neglected and overlooked. However, with the development of the large high school and the need for individualized counseling, a pressing demand for trained guidance personnel became an imperative part of school. As such, when Churchland High School entered its present building in September, 1954, guidance services also came into being. As the first guidance director for the new school, Miss Charlotte Beale began the program that in ten years has expanded into a major area of school life here at CHS.

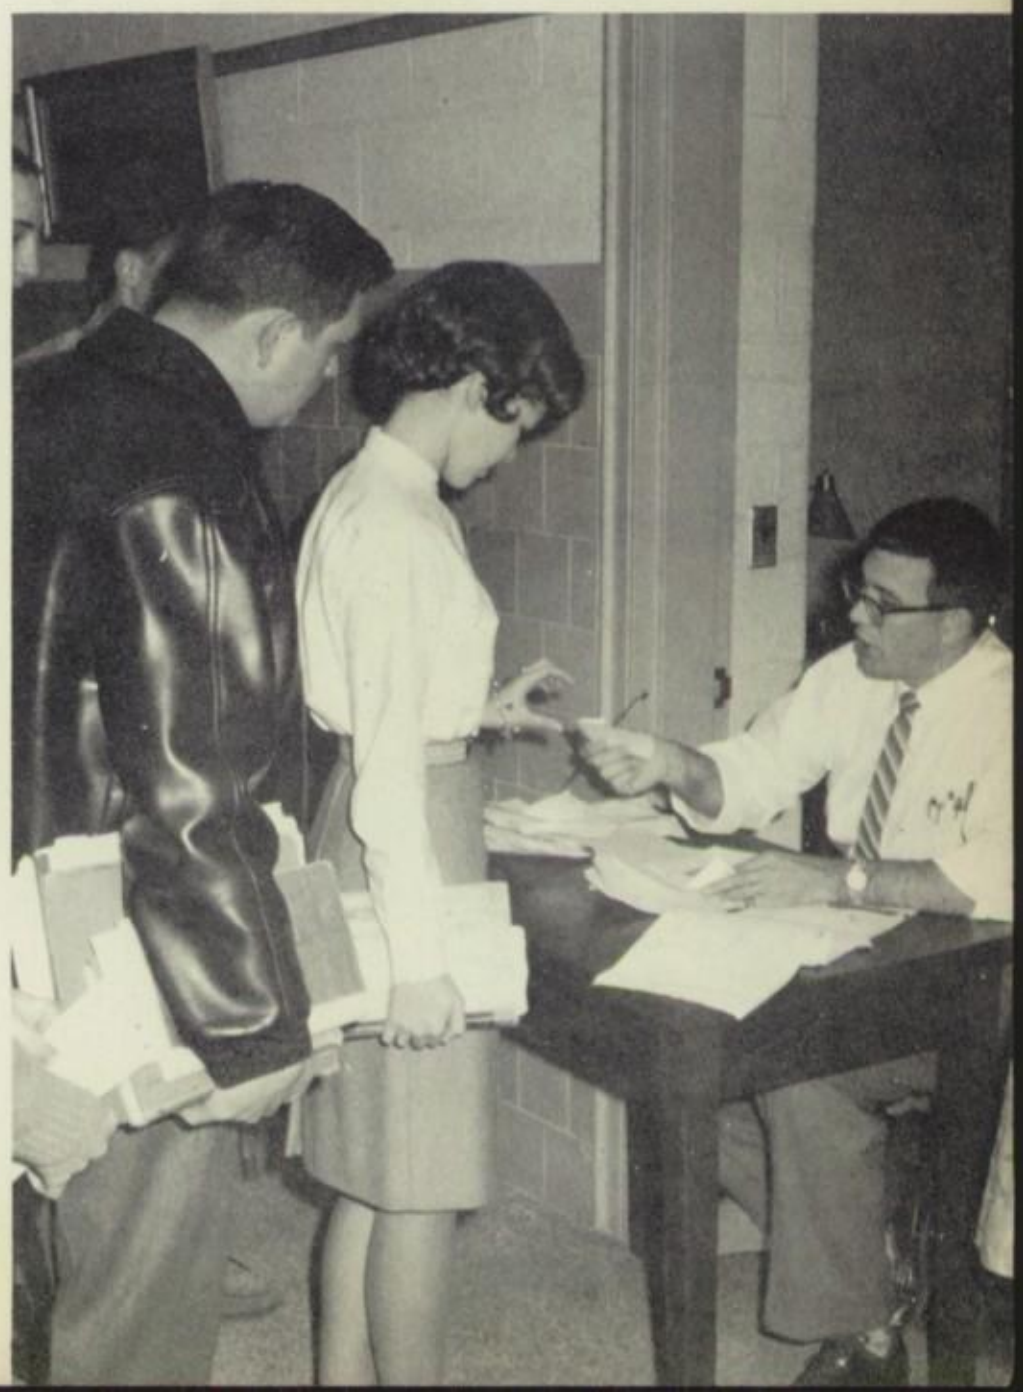
Guidance, as developed and carried out by Miss Beale, includes many jobs of which few people are actually aware. All during the day Miss Beale counsels with numerous students. From securing information about college entrance requirements and scholarships and checking on class progress and records of students to giving standardized tests, averaging grades, and advising on subject matter, Miss Beale is constantly striving to provide students, teachers, and parents with the best counseling and guidance program that can be offered.

For her untiring effort, her love for Churchland High School, and her willingness to give of her time to pupils, as well as to teachers and parents, we, the Class of 1964, devotedly dedicate The 1964 Trucker to Miss Charlotte Anne Beale.

School Life Emphasizes The Individual's Worth

Although school is a collective institution, the staff of The 1964 Trucker believes that the importance of school is seen through individual achievement. The qualities and distinctions which mark each individual's being lead to the numerous varieties in accomplishments. These qualities are developed and strengthened by education. The training of the individual, both mental and physical, through class studies, homework, extra-curricular activities, and interscholastic activities, is the most important goal of Churchland High School. All emphasis is drected towards this one aim, and the proof of the worthiness of this effort is witnessed through the excellence of the individual. The school cannot earn greater satisfaction than that which comes with developing a well-educated person, ready to take his place in a democratic society as is ours.

At Churchland High School the individual is recognized in many ways: through class work, scholastic excellence, scientific achievement, athletic prowess, artistic ability, service, leadership, and many others. After graduation, the achievements of the individual are equally as important, not only for the individual, but also for tht school upon which his achievement reflects. The annual staff of The 1964 Trucker believes that the individual has an important function in the actions of society. Although today's environment cannot help but mold an individual in certain ways, the annual staff feels that there is worthiness and dignity within each person that is permanent and unchanging. Therefore, individual achievement at Churchland High School should be encouraged and recognized. For this reason, the staff of The 1964 Trucker places its focus on the individual. By so doing it is hoped that each Trucker will come to have a personal feeling that this yearbook vividly pictures his year at CHS.



Sixth period pep rallies on Friday afternoons, though few in number, will always be remembered as a time of joyful school spirit.

Individual Adds Change To CHS Opening Days

To Seniors receiving their long awaited class rings, the first day of school was indeed an exciting one.

Outwardly the new school year of 1963-64 showed only few changes. An obvious one was an asphalt parking lot needed for the increasing number of student drivers. Also, wide-eyed freshmen were relieved that hazing had finally been ended. Both the students and faculty were quite happy that those tedious and tiring SCAT and STEP tests were discontinued. The brief presence of dogs also increased this light-hearted feeling.

Though for many it seemed that there was a certain predictable routine about CHS, it was the individual who added that spark of life that made the difference. Again the football hopefuls began practice in the last torrid days of August. The 279 new freshmen arrived amid the same confusion and bewilderment that had confronted older classes. There was a scramble to obtain used books and buy new ones. Money was needed for fees, insurance and locks. Again there was the problem of establishing relationships with teachers and students.

Each person took from these and other unaccountable experiences, significance and value that was only for him as an individual.

Buying books was only one of the many details of the new school year that made students wish for a money tree. As Kathleen Daughtrey digs into her change purse to pay for an algebra book, Mrs. Eastwood breathes a sigh that one more of the 4786 books sold this year disappears from the shelf.

"Patience, jackass, patience," was the punch line in this hilarious scene from the delightful band assembly. Popular selections like "Fandango" and "Six-fifty East" were offered and the student body seemed assured that the quality of CHS assemblies was still top level.

Individuals Pool Talent For Homecoming Success

A modern Prince Charming seeks his shoeless Cinderella at the SCA Homecoming Dance. Nearly $300 was netted from this dance for the foreign exchange student fund.

The first holiday of the school year, October 11, proved to be a perfect day to celebrate homecoming. It climaxed a week of sleepless nights, flower-making, primping, little study, and other frantic preparations which called on every individual's talent and time.

A homecoming first this year was the afternoon parade through the Churchland business area. Different, too, was the method of choosing the homecoming court. After the football team's nominations, the faculty narrowed the group down and then popular vote determined the Queen and Maid of Honor.

Nearly equal in importance to the homecoming game was the contest with rival Wilson, held for the first time in the CHS stadium. Preceding this was "School Spirit Week" with the JV Apple Bowl on Thursday night and School Color Day and Quiet Day on Friday. The day's silence ended in a thunderous pep rally.

Besides the football fanfare, experiences of receiving first report cards and choosing new Marshals helped each individual realize his value and the rewards of accomplishing trying tasks.

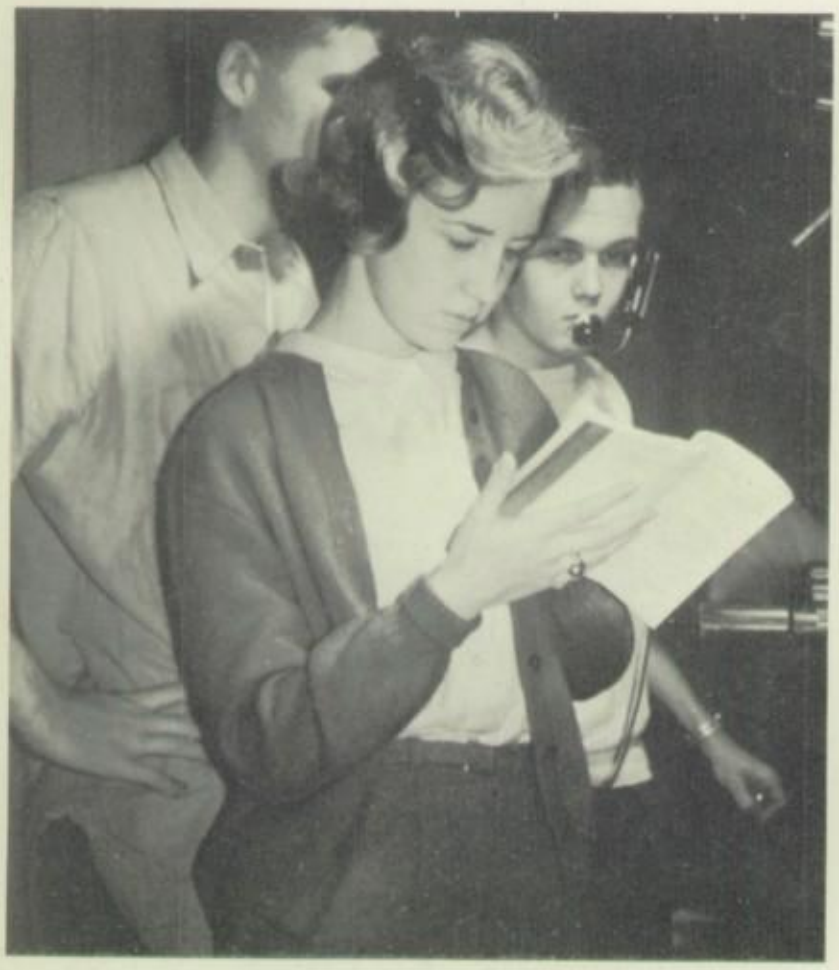
Adorned in frilly bonnets and curlers, Martha Tierney and Donna Wells add the final "flowers" to their float.

"We want Peter Gunn" was the often-heard cry from CHS band enthusiasts. This song became the band's trademark during the football season.

Happiness is a winning football season.

The tension generated by the Marshal Assembly exploded amidst bursts of laughter as Dick Weatherford fumblingly pinned new Chief Marshal Linnea Woodling.

Senior Play Provides Means Of Self-expression



Linda Holland, prompting Bill Proffitt and Wayne Luehrs, reflects intense interest in the Senior Class Play.

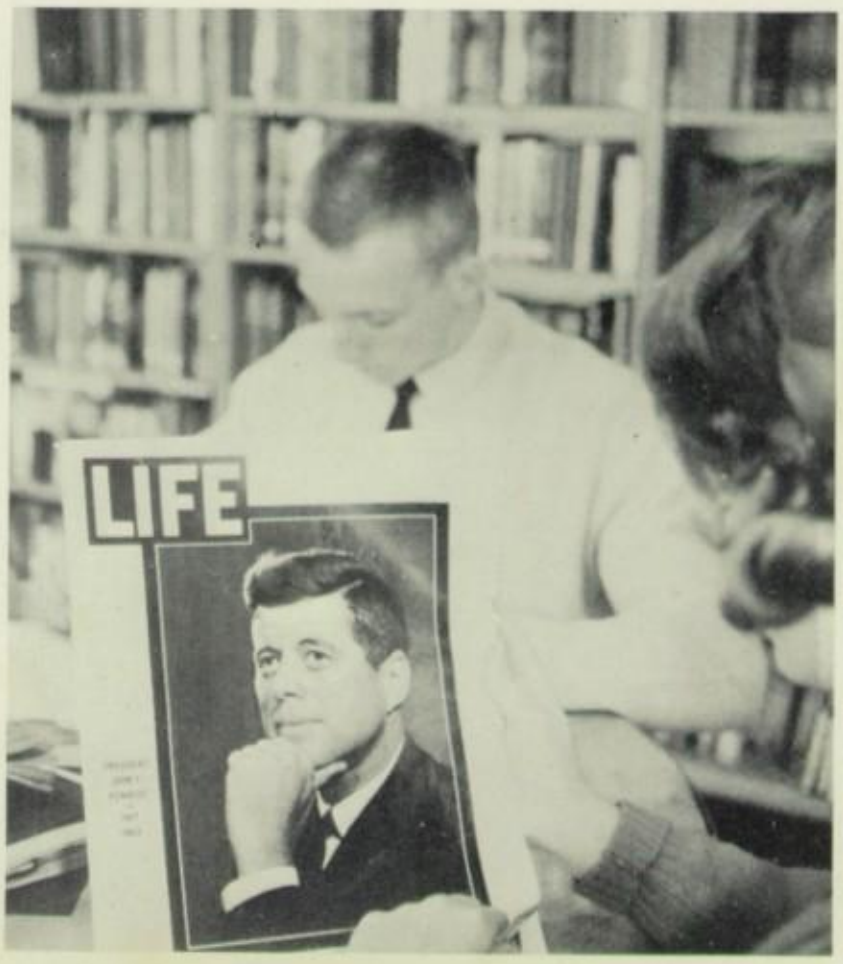
Constant and trying rehearsals marked the weeks of November for many seniors. It was the production of the comedy, "The Mouse That Roared," that called upon each individual's talent to express himself and communicate. The results were quite pleasing and those involved seemed to have acquired a dramatic flair. It was a profitable venture, too, for $225 was raised for the Senior Class gift to the school.

But this happy mood at CHS changed abruptly to one of sorrow and grief with the assassination of President Kennedy. He was the only recent President with whom the youth of America had identified themselves. The loss of this young leader affected noticeable changes in the too-often superficial manner of many individuals.

Churchland observed Thanksgiving with a two-day rest that was sparked by the annual Turkey Trot. Then the emphasis swung to the basketball season, which opened victoriously on Friday, December the 13th. Seniors will also remember this as a time of College Boards, so very important in college admittance.

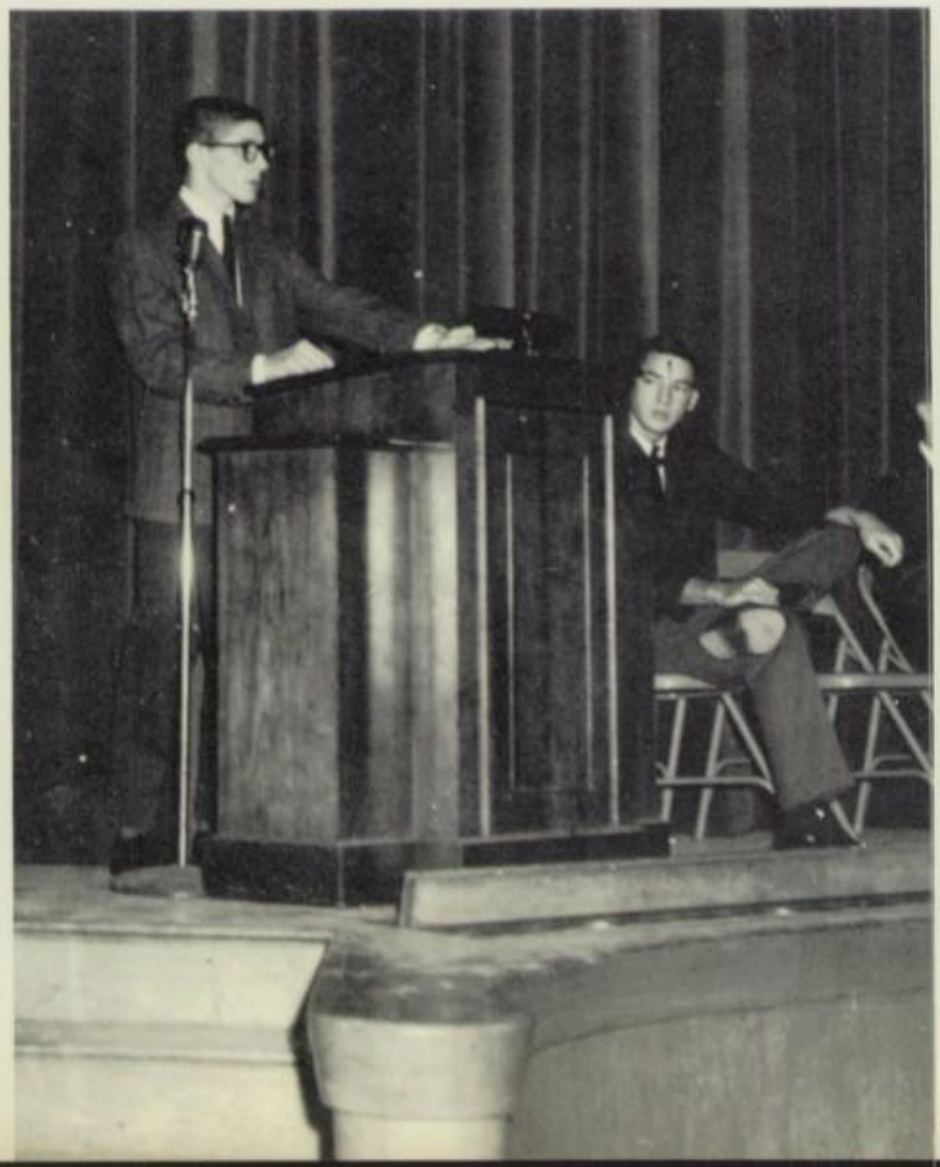
Make-up is one of woman's tools of deception. Here, Linda Lemasters adds "time" to the youthful face of Hortense Mitchell.

In such eventful days, many individuals paused to contemplate the mysteries of life and to separate the great from the small.



Senior Skippy Rawl was Churchland's entry in the WGH Radio Current Events Contest which offered a $500 scholarship. The first round was taped in the school auditorium.

State SCA President David Rutledge was featured in an assembly which presented a workable honor code to the student body.



At the National Honor Society Hootenanny, held first in November for underclassmen and later in January for Juniors and Seniors, Mike Young, Gary Richardson and Danny Darden emulate that ethnic folk spirit in their performance of "Walk Right In."

Carefree and lighthearted on the day before Christmas vacation, CHS students and teachers abandon the lunch tables for a place around the piano to join in singing their favorite carols.

Christmas Season Alters Daily Routine At CHS

With a jovial Roman Santa looking on, Phyllis Chadwick presents Mel Wittig, of Mr. Moore's homeroom, with the first place award for her door.

The arrival of Christmas at CHS resulted in a bustle of activity that added a certain sparkle to an otherwise daily routine of classes and studies. While teachers were striving to reach some stopping point in their program, students were trying to find time for both their schoolwork and outside activities.

Holiday spirit was engendered in every phase of Trucker life. Art classes created attractive home decorations while Spanish classes made festive cards for faculty members. To give the students a preview of its coming performance, the choral department presented two assemblies. The band concluded the two-part Christmas program with a concert that made the Yule-time even merrier and more meaningful. Having been excused for the entire week prior to vacation, DE and ICT students were given the opportunity to increase their Christmas spending money. But the long-awaited moment came as the 3:10 bell rang on December 20 and all poured out of school, perhaps to meet again at the City Basketball Tournament.

Playing the role of Santa's helpers, homeroom welfare representatives gather around the SCA Christmas tree to pack the food and toys that were collected from the student body for needy families.

For many weeks, students had heard the strains of music floating down the hall from chorus practices before and after school, and they finally witnessed the results at the annual Christmas choral concert. Harriet Moran, accompanied by the entire mixed chorus, renders a solo of "The Little Jesu of Braga."

Mid-Winter Brings Basketball, Exams, "Beatles"

Functioning as official hosts at the Heart Fund Concert, Marshals Boyd Pace and Nancy Harris distribute programs and receive tickets prior to the beginning of the program.

During the first few weeks following vacation, the steady pace that prevailed at CHS was broken only intermittently by the excitement of Tuesday and Friday night basketball games. But as the teachers began to probe the minds of their students for knowledge learned in September, the accustomed rush to cram for exams once more began and ended in a holiday only after three days of exhaustive testing.

Throughout the first week of February, combinations of red, white, and blue were seen in various forms carrying out the theme of Patriotism Week. However, it seemed that the thoughts of most Truckers were turned to England and its latest singing sensation—the "Beatles." Beatle haircuts dominated the scene.

While science classes were turning in their yearly projects and math students were struggling through competitive examinations, the seniors were preparing for that special day in June. Open windows, cool breezes, and sunshine were their cue to relish their last months at Churchland.

During a brief interlude at the annual Miss Churchland Contest, the Men's Glee Club, accompanied by Mrs. Blake and Carrie Shufflebarger entertains an expectant audience with "There's Nothing Like a Dame" and "Aura Lee."

The snow displays footprints of returning Truckers as CHS resumes normal activities after an unexpected holiday on the third consecutive Ash Wednesday holiday.

To suppliment their classroom readings, Latin IV students take time out to improvise and tape a humorous version of The Aeneid told through the lyrics of popular songs.

"I hated your husband. And that ladder . . . I gave it to him—on purpose." With these startling words, Cheryl Meekings tries to bring her widowed daughter, Diane Griffith, back to reality in a production of the competition play, "The Refuge." Wayne Leuhrs, Mike Young, and Marilyn Lorance rounded out the cast of five that competed with district schools at Frederick College.

Sunny Day Activities Bring End To CHS Year

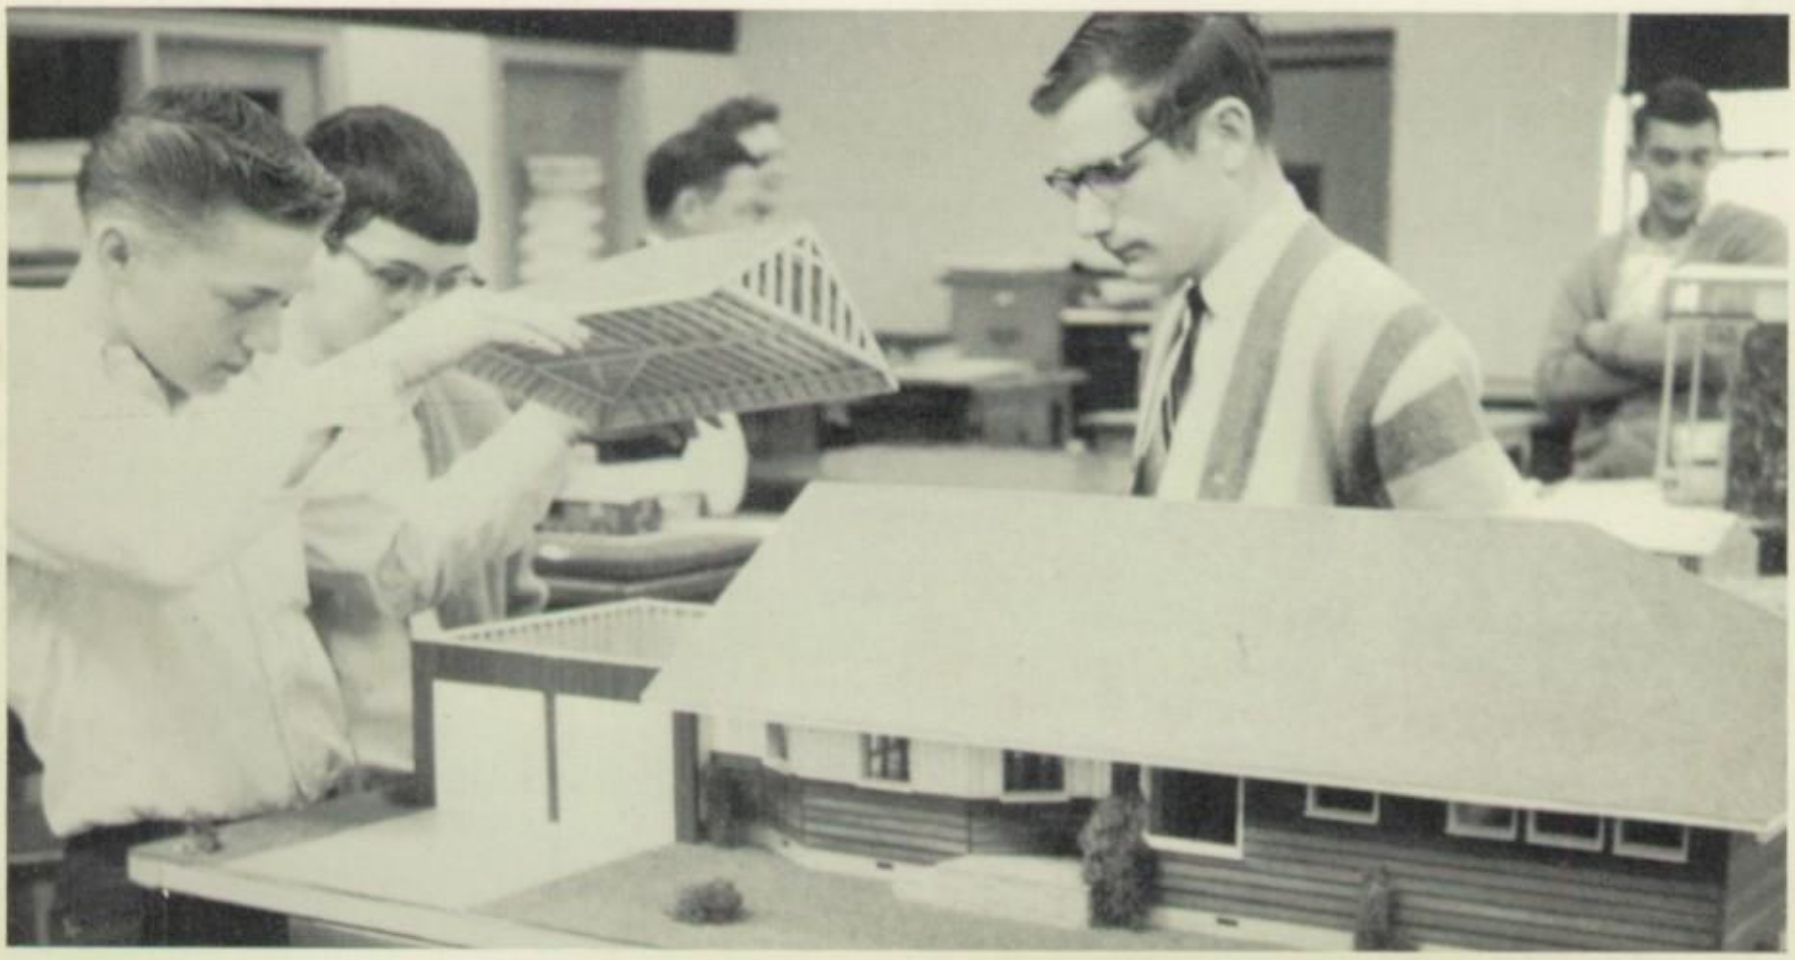
Ann Scott's thoughts wander from her studies; she, as many other Truckers, found it impossible to evade spring fever.

In the concluding months of the school term, the charming spirit of spring stirred hibernating CHS students to a state of lively activity. Teachers who required tedious term papers and yearly projects of their students also stimulated activity, but it was not as joyful. Again enthusiastic throngs appeared to participate in the "sunny day" sports, golf, tennis, track, and baseball, and in a new sport, "hooter skootering".

The SCA election of officers encouraged CHS individuals to express their own opinions about school government. These days were flooded with gay campaign posters, rallies, candidate buttons and favors, and lively debates. The election of new varsity cheerleaders, too, captured the attention of every individual, especially the eager girls seeking this prize.

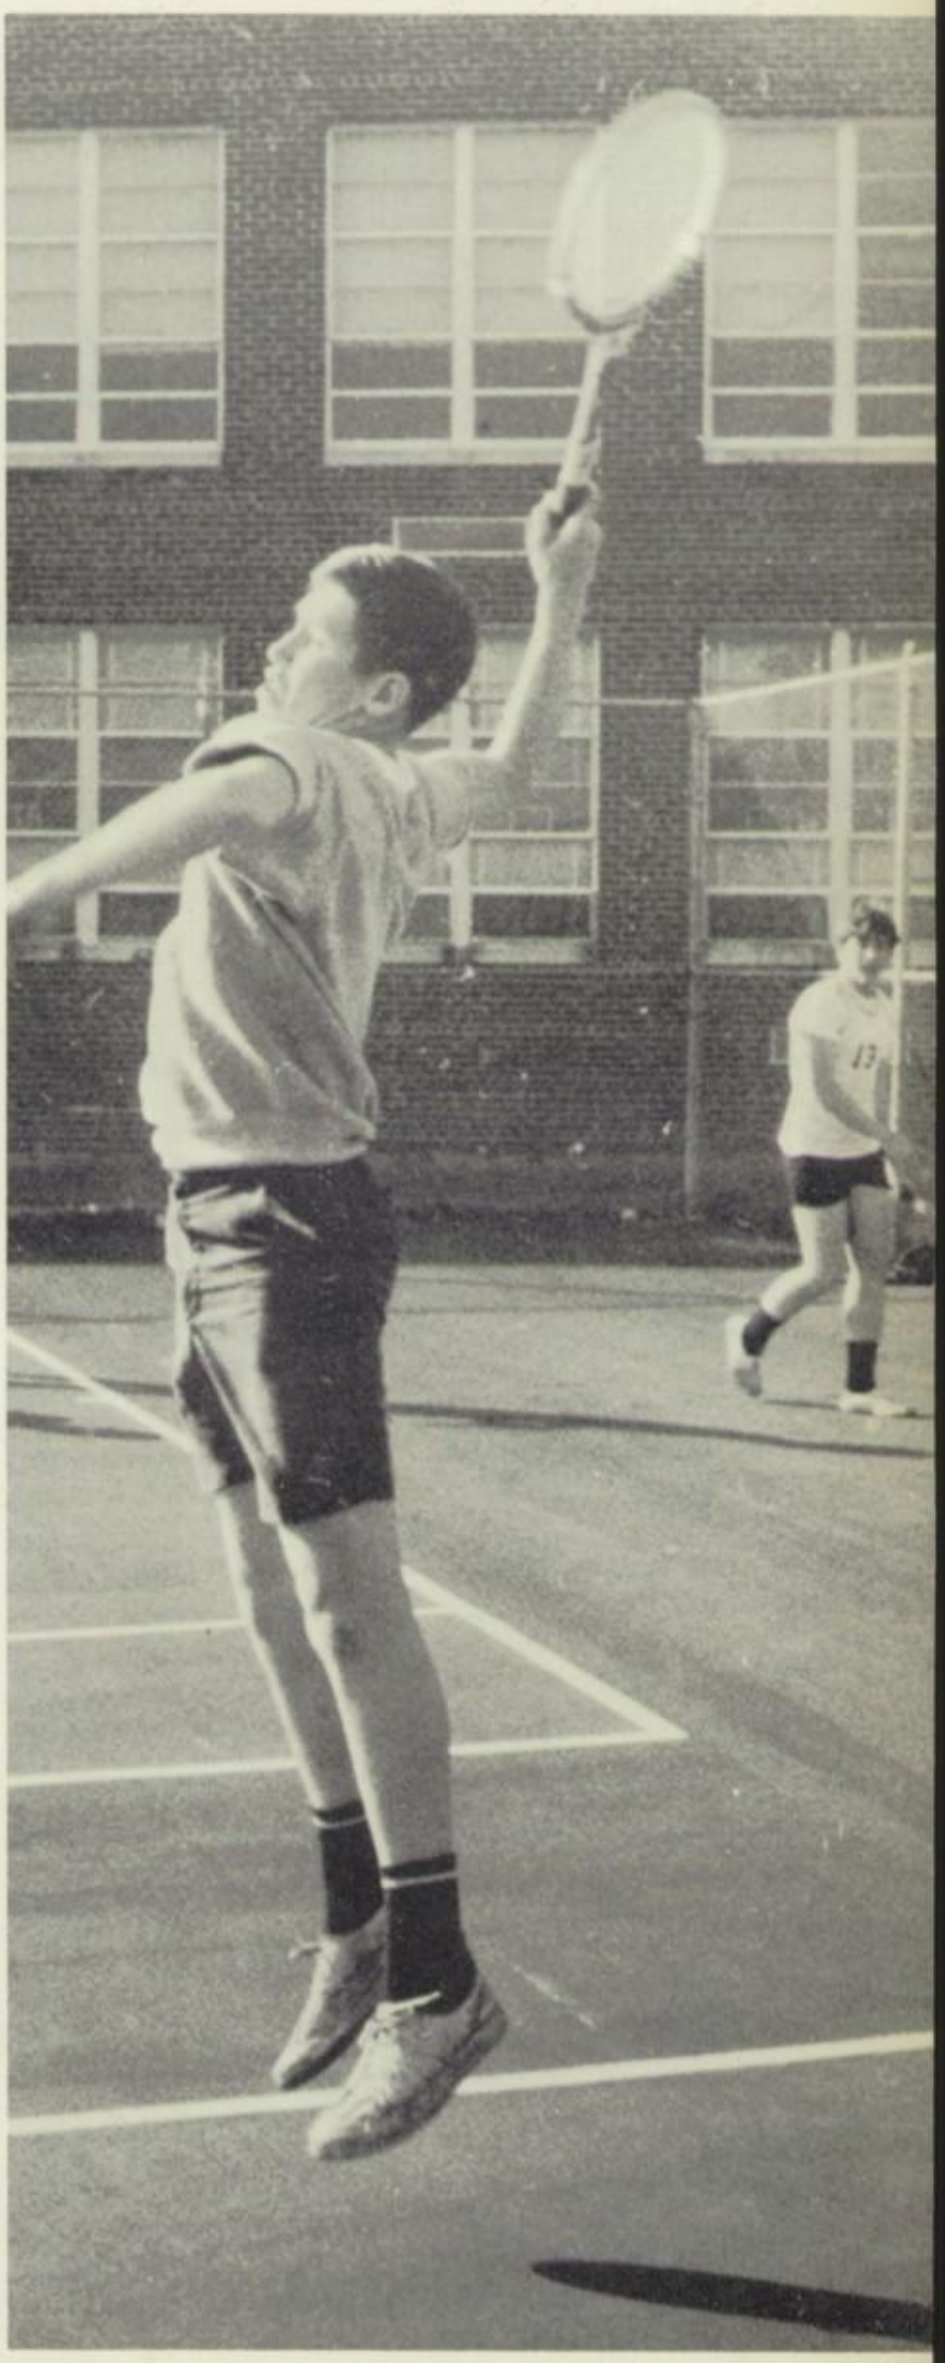
The closing moments of school were happy ones, times of jaunty Bermuda Day, the Senior Class party, musical concerts, and a Southern style Junior-Senior Prom, marred only slightly by hectic exams. Graduation, so long awaited, now came suddenly to 250 CHS individuals.

Again this year, second year mechanical drawing students were required to design and build models of their dream homes. Mike Pigg proudly exhibits his own project to curious on-lookers, David Monacelli and Eddie Snyder.



Debater Bill Spain summarizes his and Joe Braintwain's affirmative position on a Medicare proposal to an intent Wilson negative team.

As varied as each individual, a line of books in the parking lot increases as students wait to leave school.



With the arrival of spring, the CHS tennis courts were filled with activity. Grimacing Richard Henderson jumps high into the air to reach a high bouncer.

Best of wishes and good luck

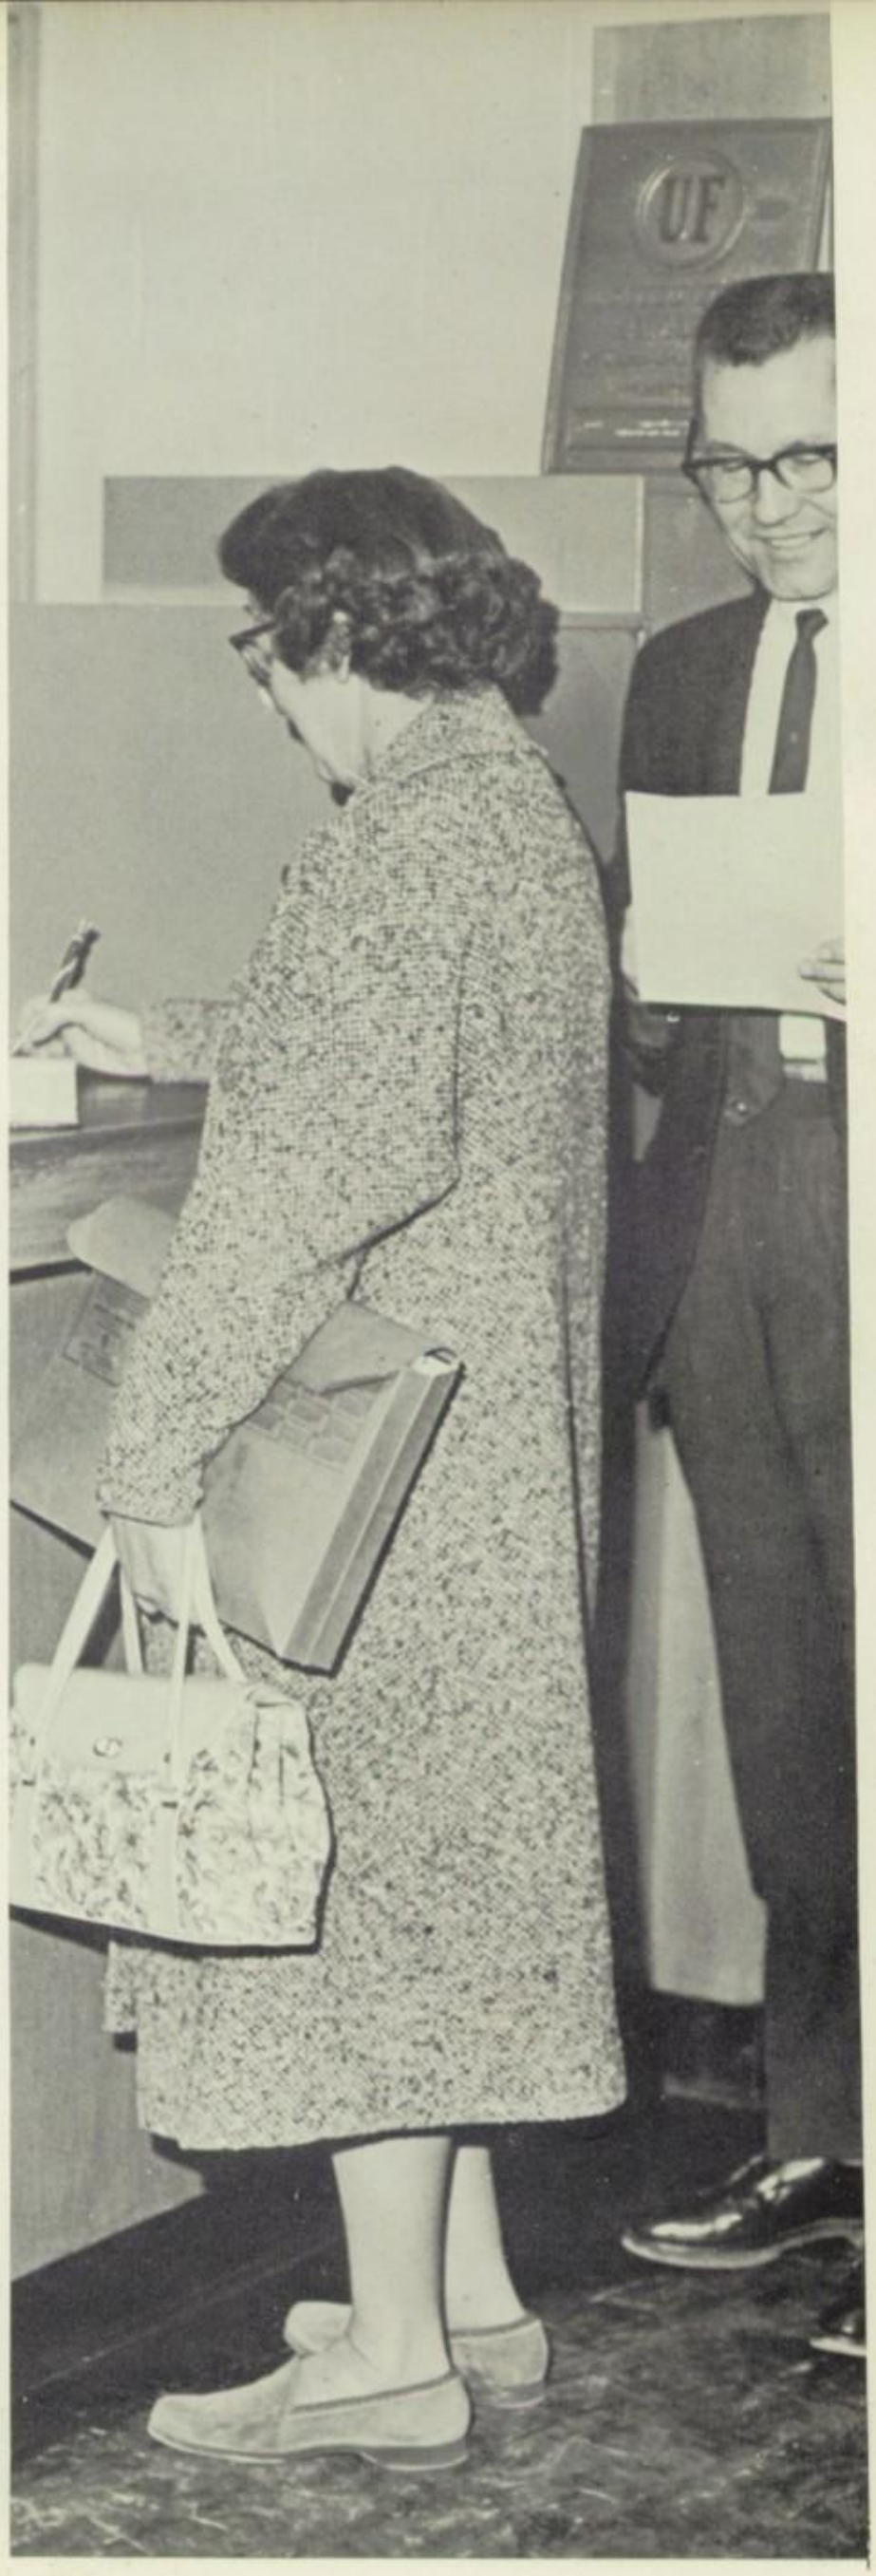
CHS Classroom Work Reflects The Needs Of The Individual In Life

An education is an experience that requires two separate processes. The first involves the teaching of the subject matter. The second involves the learning of the subject matter. Whether or not one process is more important than the other, is an unanswerable question. However, at Churchland High School, the students are presented with the best faculty available. As a qualified individual in a specific area, the teacher can impart a well-versed knowledge of the subject upon the student, he can instill a love for the subject in the student, and he can influence individual achievement in that field of study. Such an accomplishment is the gift of an education.



School Administrators Keep Restless Pace

Mr. Lloyd E. Gaskins (left), Assistant Principal, and Mr. Frank D. Beck, Principal

Mr. Beck, as the co-ordinating head of Churchland High School, and Mr. Gaskins, as his assistant, have much more to do than meets the eye or even the imagination of most students. Credit should be given them for their ability to manage so many and varied activities with such skill.

To begin with, Mr. Beck is responsible for everything that is in any way related to the school. He must supervise all instruction in the school and is responsible for Churchland's public relations program. The care and maintenance of the school are also under his supervision. It is his duty to formulate the curriculum; one of his biggest jobs, which takes months and months, is scheduling. Some of the duties of which most people are not aware include such things as counting all the houses being built in this area to estimate the number of students that will attend CHS, and taking the census. Besides these duties, Mr. Beck must take care of routine office business.

Mr. Gaskins shares some of Mr. Beck's responsibilities. In enforcing discipline and supervising transportation facilities, he lightens somewhat the principal's burden. He also has such various duties as alternating with the principal in representing the school at meetings, observing the general management of the building, and assisting in classroom visitation and teacher evaluation.

In addition to their professional activities, both Mr. Beck and Mr. Gaskins are perhaps CHS's most ardent boosters and supporters, for they are always seen at the many extracurricular activities in which the Truckers are involved.

English Classes Emphasize More Reading

The key to all fields of knowledge lies in the thorough understanding of our own language. With this in mind, the English department at CHS endeavored to institute a program that would enable each individual not only to write with exactness, but also to read with comprehension. Thus the book of four novels was introduced to the classes of all grade levels.

English literature, interspersed with such outside reading as Shaw's plays and Ivanhoe, constituted a major course of study for seniors. In their study of American prose and poetry, those students in the junior class became familiar with Moby Dick. For both juniors and seniors the vocabulary workshop served as a means of strengthening their usuage. Sophomores and freshmen spent the year mainly in gaining an understanding of the essential grammatical constructions. In addition, such great works as Shakespeare's Julius Caesar and Dicken's Great Expectations and excerpts from Homer's Odyssey were read and carefully studied. Book reports, themes, and class discussions, along with the literature all served to expose the fundamentals of our native tongue.

In an attempt to balance the creative with the materialistic part of man, and with the knowledge that a study of the heritage of western civilization would contribute to a better understanding of the world today, the social studies department added a new course to its curriculum—humanities. Following the outline provided by a set of films created for this very purpose, Mr. Mancuso divided the year into sections for the study of art, philosophy, drama, music, and literature. Individual research resulted in valuable enlightment.

As in years past, the curriculum also included geography, for freshmen, and world history, for sophomores. In order to gain a clearer picture of controversial questions, the juniors in Mr. Mancuso's American history classes participated in debates. The seniors in Mr. Gwin's government classes held mock trials. Bills were passed in the model Congress set up by Mr. Yost's classes. Through such courses, the social studies department attempted to make its students good citizens of "tomorrow" through a fuller understanding of "yesterday".

Wood Shop Furnishes Clubs With Gavels

In home economics class Judy Sullivan puts to practical use her instruction on how to cut out a pattern. The finished dress will do much to enhance her wardrobe.

From the learning of proper household management to the making of useful wood and metal projects and the drawing of architectural designs, students enrolled in wood shop, metal shop, home economics and mechanical drawing are given many opportunities to design and create products of worthwhile value. In wood shop this year the boys assumed the project of making gavels for all of the clubs in school. They also showed that even bowling pins—of which they were given several hundred—can be turned into such articles as lamp bases and salt and pepper shakers. Girls in home economics displayed their talents in homemaking through the planning, cooking and serving of meals to both parents and teachers on many occasions. Through these activities and through other class work, "home ec" girls learned the best ways of making a house a home. Advanced mechanical drawing students displayed their talents in the spring when they constructed scale model houses from their own design. And the boys in metal shop displayed their skills in the numerous articles designed and made from metal and in the repairing and rebuilding of various metal objects.

Artistic Expression Exhibited By Students

Putting their whole hearts into it, Helen McCready, Joan Daughtrey and Kathy Oliver blend their tones mellifluously while singing with the Triple Trio in the Christmas concert.

The fine arts department offers the individual a chance to belong to a group and also to develop his own interests.

Membership in any of the choral groups gives a student a sense of responsibility as he attends the early morning rehearsals preceding a concert or as he hears the tapes of a performance and realizes that he has been a part of the final production. Individual achievement comes with being given a solo voice part or auditioning and making All-State Chorus.

The band, as the instrumental section of CHS's music program, has displayed its individuality in field programs during the football season, at its Christmas concert, and at various other programs and competitions. Instrumental playing gives a student a sense of individual accomplishment.

Art completes the liberal arts courses offered at CHS. It affords instruction in the creative arts, painting and sculpture, and in the commercial arts such as designing and lettering. Having been instructed in the basic principles of art composition, students are given a chance to display their own talent in competition by means of the various art contests.

Students Investigate The "Why's" Of Math

Algebra I-II
Senior Class Sponsor

"Why" is the key word in mathematics this year. More than ever before the students are searching for the "why's" of what they are doing, along with the "how's." They are introduced to the concept of set structure from the beginning, starting in junior high school, so that they may better understand the subject. Along with this new concept of math, a new course in advanced mathematics has been added for the students who have mastered all the other courses offered. There have been some more changes made. Trigonometry and advanced algebra have been combined into one course, as have plane and solid geometry.

In the present math curriculum, a student may take basic courses in math to obtain an understanding of the subject, although he might not plan to pursue it any further. For example, those seniors requiring further practice in the essentials of math are given the opportunity to take the Senior Math Survey. Those students wishing to continue their math studies in preparation for college are provided with the more advanced courses.

A unique piece of equipment consisting of a microphone and earphones served to introduce first year French and Spanish students to the strange sounds of these modern languages. As part of the mobile-electronic lab at Churchland, it played a vital role in the department's attempt to make the student adept not only in reading and writing, but also in conversing.

While the beginners were learning by the process of repetition, advanced students in the newly-created French V class read the original works by such authors as Maupassant and Hugo. Those in the Spanish V class, also new, were required to read a novel every six weeks.

In a program that emphasized reading rather than speaking, Latin students were able to enter the world of another time. Ovid's Metamorphoses, Vergil's Aeneid, and Caesar's Gallic Wars not only served their purpose as language texts, but also enabled the "scholars" to become acquainted with some of the great classics. Daily sentence writing further served to teach these modern day Romans the proper usage of Latin.

Students Gain Skills In Commercial Work

Mrs. Joan Hall

Shorthand II, Typing I-II

In attempting to train students for all types of work, the business department has its hands full. Its classroom courses—typing, shorthand, general business, bookkeeping, recordkeeping, business law, and clerical practice, along with the three on-the-job courses of V.O.T., I.C.T., and D.E.—try to accomplish this. Students may learn about a certain type of work, and when they reach their junior year, they may obtain practical experience which they may use on a full time basis after graduation.

In the highly technical twentieth century, the CHS business department offers the student understanding into specialized areas of commercial life. Not only is the business department accomplishing its most important purpose in training students to work, but it is also attempting to meet the needs of those students who plan to attend college. Such courses as typing, business law, bookkeeping, and shorthand, though primarily designed for those students intending to work after graduation, offer practical training in fields of endeavor that confront each of us daily.

Every student is aware of Churchland's pace-keeping science department on the days when the fragrant smell of esters comes floating down the hall. But most people are unaware of the large number of Churchland science students that participate in state and nation-wide competition. The yearly projects required of science students are often entered in such contests as the Virginia Junior Academy of Science and the National Science Foundation. The department tries to whet their appetites in this way to prepare them for the space-conscious and scientific world of today.

The three laboratory sciences, biology, chemistry, and physics, along with the senior science survey, not only provide a strong foundation of scientific knowledge, but also attempt to spark the imagination of the students into experimenting on their own, as with their projects. General science provides an understanding of the subject for those who do not continue their formal education in science and also provides a glimpse of the many ramifications of scientific study and endeavor.

Boys Form Teams For Intramural Competitions

"Down-fourteen-eight-set-one-two-snap!" This sound, frequently heard after school hours, started play for the new boys intramural football league. 1963 marked the first year of intramural activities for boys at CHS. The league gave boys not on the varsity or junior varsity football and basketball teams a chance to experience playing these sports in school. The CHS intramural program will be an initial step in preparing boys for tryouts on the varsity teams.

During school hours, Trucker boys in physical education classes were eagerly participating in volleyball, basketball, wrestling, gymnastics, and baseball. The girls were just as busy with field hockey, volleyball, basketball, wisket, tennis, shuffleboard, and square dancing. In the health classes freshman girls bandaged each other in their study of first aid, while sophomore classes were discovering unexplored fields of mental health. The juniors and seniors continuing in physical education were exposed to new and varied recreational games, such as archery.

Although it is not an organized department, the special services are necessary for the proper running the school. The guidance counselors directed the students in their fitted courses of study. Secretarial duties and routine business were handled by the office staff. The lunchroom staff daily provided hot lunches for CHS's multitude of hungry mouths. The two librarians provided an atmosphere of study as well as an abundance of books and reference material. To those students enrolled in special education Mrs. Reppert offered individualized instruction and guidance in various fields of endeavor. School safety and the fluid movement of traffic were contributed by the efforts of our school safety guard. The well-kept appearance of CHS was maintained by the diligent efforts of the custodial staff.

Organizations At CHS Give Students A Means To Show Individualism

Organizations play an important part in the smooth operation of Churchland High School. In their own way, every organization is of some service to the school, and the school is quite dependent upon these services. Imagine conditions at Churchland High School without the services of the SCA, the music department, the Trucker Topics, or the many other clubs upon which the school is dependent.

Any organization at Churchland High School, in order to be successful, requires good leadership and excellent guidance on the part of the sponsor, but most of all, it needs the active participation of its individual members. Without the individual's support, no matter how good the leadership may be, an organization cannot be successful.

SCA Makes Plans For Exchange Student

Charles Glisson, president

Laying the plans for a future exchange student program at CHS was set as the main objective of the Student Council. This involved enlisting local organizations as sponsors and raising funds to support the program.

Throughout the school year, the SCA highlighted the school with many events and activities. During the first week of school, an SCA tea was held in honor of new and returning teachers, followed by homecoming events which included the first parade held at CHS. Quiet Day, an annual day of complete silence preceeding the Churchland-Wilson game, added money to the Scholarship Fund through fines collected from persons caught talking. The winter months saw the presentation of an honor system to the student body and also the awarding of scholarship pins to those individuals who had reached high standards in scholastic achievement. Spring brought Bermuda Day, Career Day and Patriotism Week, a new event this year. Graduation ended a successful scholarship drive as two deserving seniors were awarded money to help further their education.

In addition to these seasonal activities, the SCA also provided year-round services to the students of CHS, such as a calendar listing all school activities, a student directory, a school handbook which was given to entering freshmen and a bookstore in which students were able to find paperback books of all types for private and class use. Thus the SCA was a part of the Trucker way of life.

While most organizations were ending their activities last spring, The 1964 Trucker staff was just beginning the work necessary to edit a yearbook. New members were chosen, and for the first time there was greater representation from underclassmen. As soon as the sections were allotted and the co-editors selected, a cover color and design were decided upon.

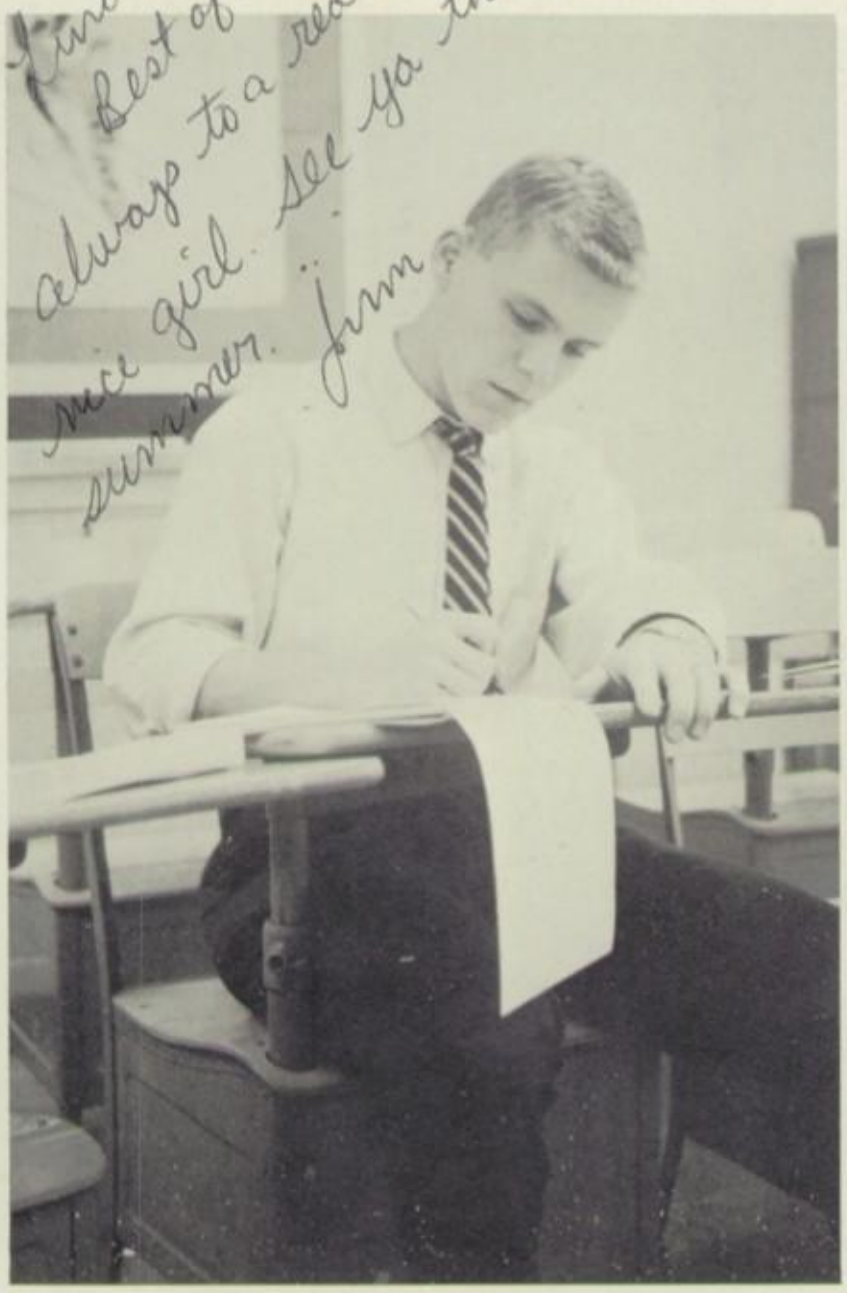
Following a summer of drawing layouts and ad collecting, the major work was started by the staff's conducting the yearly subscription drive in October. Eighty-one per cent of the student body bought books this year, nine-hundred and twenty-eight in number, which is the largest in the history of CHS.

Work on the annual continued everyday after school, during sixth period, and at staff members' homes. Many hours were spent in the proofreading of every article, the writing and rewriting of copy, the typing of finished work for the printer, and the counting of copy placement. In addition, coming up with suitable headlines was the most difficult task for the staff members. When the necessary number of ads was sold, amounting to over eighteen hundred dollars, Trucker members sent bills, receipts, and letters of appreciation to patrons.

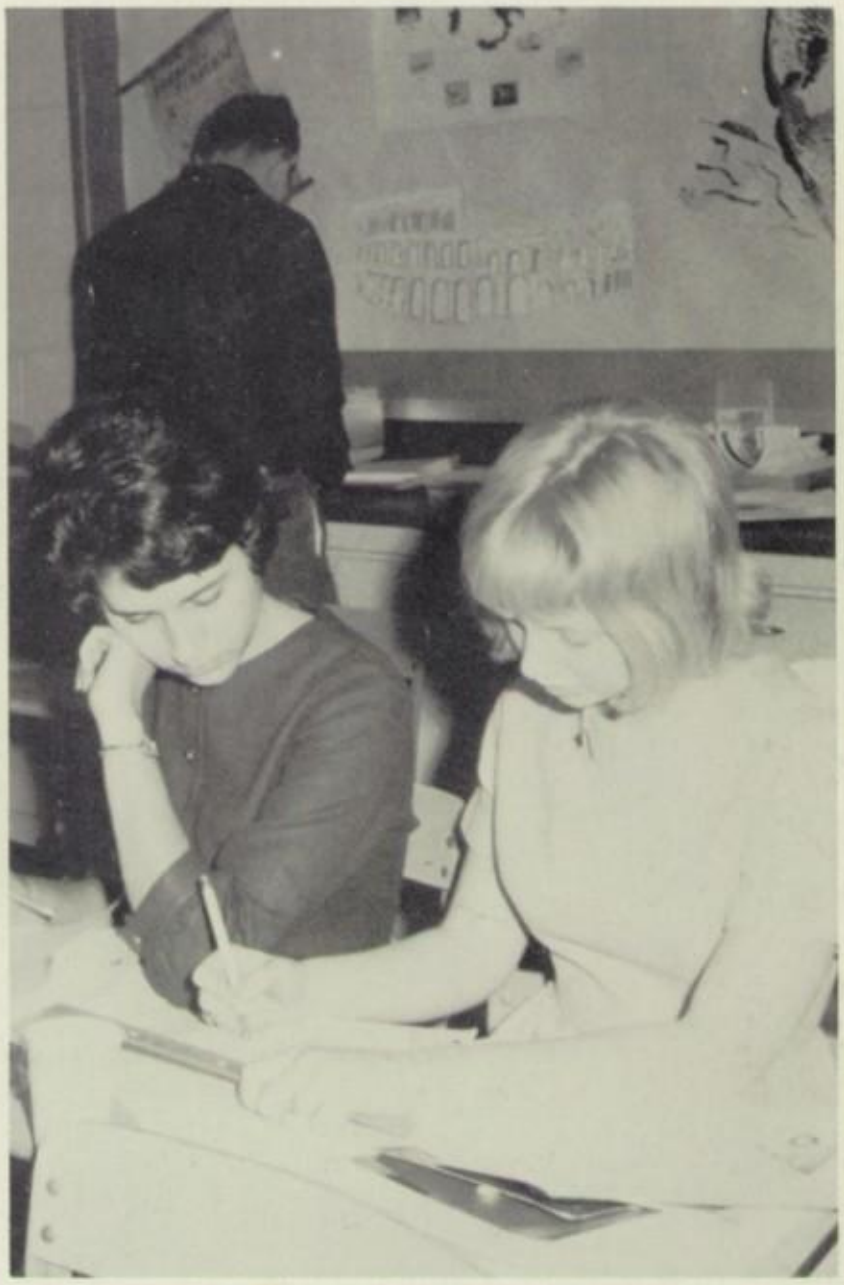
Many of the photographs appearing in The 1964 Trucker are products of the staff's new Polaroid camera. Over three hundred dollars was spent for it and new flash equipment. As there was no specific photographer on the staff, all members used it. However, the staff's sponsor, Mr. Moore, was a familiar figure with the camera at all school events.

Several Trucker members attended the SIPA convention at Washington and Lee. The Trucker is patterned by the rules of this convention and this year an opportunity for learning new fundamentals of yearbook construction and composition was presented through meetings there.

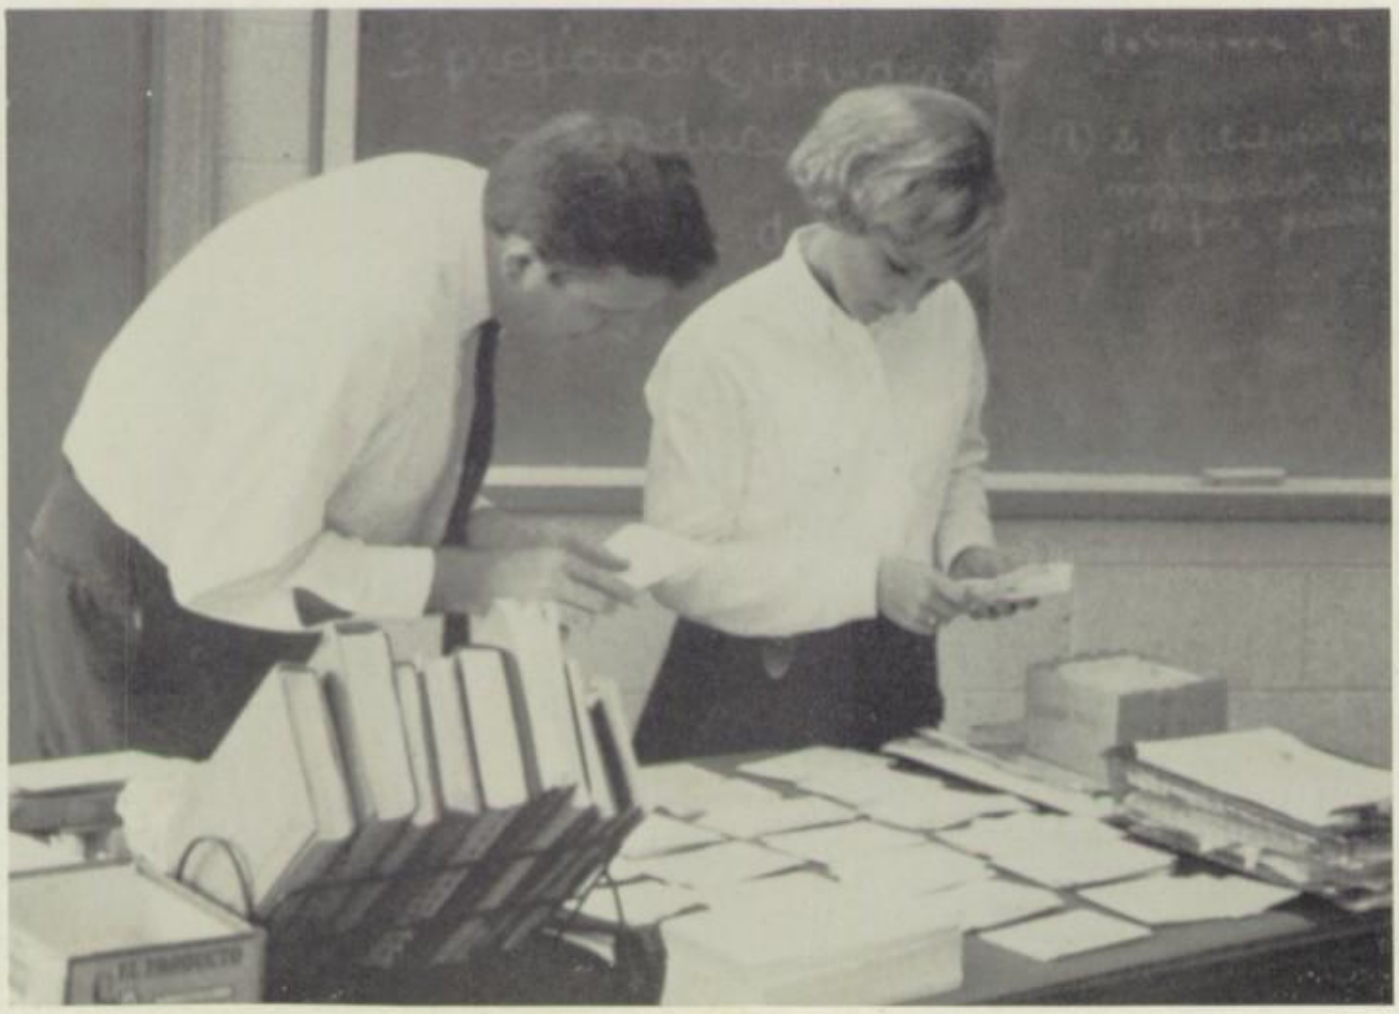
Staff editors were Tommy Dickens, Sports Editor; Sally Companion, Class Editor; Cindi Campbell, Features Editor; Joel Weintraub, Copy Editor; Linda Staffon, Organizations Editor; Judy Kramer, Academics Editor; and Carol Murphy, Typist.



"Bills, bills, bills!" sighs Jim Alexander, business manager, as he addresses a stack of envelopes and bills which he sent out monthly to the advertisers.



Fortified throughout an after-school session with Cokes and nabs, Michele Loizzi and Fleet Hill, co-editors, labor over the opening section.



In deep concentration, Mr. Moore and Linda Staffon alphabetize 1150 index cards which made up the newest addition to The Trucker.

Observed by the sponsor, Mr. Holbrook, Sue Swanson, editor-in-chief, glues down a headline.

Hampered by a lack of typewriters and the resulting complications, the newspaper staff found it necessary to supplement its school-time work with extra Saturday sessions spent in the journalism room. Since there was no means to type articles for the layouts, all rough drafts had to be sent to Great Bridge to be typed and then returned to the school, where they were incorporated into the finished copy.

Popping flashbulbs and jotting down notes, the reporters attended all school functions and invaded the classrooms in search of offbeat stories. Each individual on the staff gained proficiency in writing clear and concise copy. For the first time, the staff was relieved of having to obtain subscriptions. Truckers paid for all eight issues as part of their general fee.

Page editors were Hortense Mitchell, Wilson Hinson, Jonathan Longman, and Jamie Parker. Circulation editors were Lorraine Speers and Judy Blankenship. Other editors were Dickie Balderson, sports; Donna Wells, art; and Phil Leonard, exchange.

Staff members complete the final task of counting and distributing the newspapers to homerooms to be picked up by the students during the last five minutes of school.

Concentration is mirrored on the face of Diane Conrad as she folds copies of the Trucker Topics just arrived from the printer.

Editors' Choice Presents Best Writing Of CHS

The Editors' Choice staff planned carefully this year and devoted its full attention to producing a limited number of editions in order to assure the student body of a first class magazine. Mr. Holbrook as the sponsor guided the staff in the setting up and putting out of the publication.

The magazine contained various selected short stories, poems, essays and prose which were written by the students. The staff solicited material from the English classes and welcomed students to present any literature with promise of quality, which showed the characteristics of some budding authors.

Proving themselves equal to the task, the members screened the selections presented to them from every available source and took the added responsibility of suggesting possible corrections.

Continuing publication for the fourth consecutive year, The Editors' Choice Staff placed its 1964 edition on sale in the spring.

Intently pondering over a short story, Marcy Jacobs helps put together this year's Editors' Choice while Wilson Hinson types.

Student Librarians Render CHS Needed Service

Edith
~~Joan~~ Lassiter and Polly Beale spend much of their time in the library behind the desk filing book cards and checking to see if each card is properly filled out.

"No charge for service rendered" could easily have been the motto of the twenty-five student librarians and visual aid boys. Spending one period everyday as "librarians", all these student assistants used this time in shelving books, writing and distributing overdue notes, checking out books, and generally helping students in the overall use of the many facilities available to them. Through such practical experience these library personnel, under the guidance and direction of Miss Gibbs and Mrs. Rawls, gained not only a first hand knowledge of the library and some of the duties it entailed, but they also were a real asset to the school and all of the students using and looking for books and resource materials.

Operating the visual aid machines was the job of the boys serving in the library. These were seen daily wheeling the film projectors through the halls to set up the film in some classroom. As such, these students proved to be a real service by filling a needed area of CHS life.

ICT Promotes Employer-Employee Relationships

Promoting employer-employee relationships and learning some purposeful skill are the two purposes of the ICT Club. This "earn-while-you-learn" policy has proven to be profitable for the students in preparing for their futures through education and guided job training in the present.

As for extra curricular activities, this club upholds a true school spirit. Highlighting the year was the Employer-Employee Banquet which not only provided an excellent dinner but also an entertaining educational evening. "Great Bridge Is Falling Down," their Homecoming float, appeared in the parade and at the game that night. Attending the District I and the state conventions of the ICT clubs proved to be very enlightening for several of the club's members.

Leading the club this year were Diane Berry, president; Trudy Phelps, vice president; Brenda Land, secretary; Mary Ellen Cross, treasurer; Ronnie Holland, parliamentarian; and Mr. Rich, sponsor.

Dental assistant Rebecca Hatchell puts to use her training in making an X-ray of Minta Davenport's teeth.

Taking temperatures is part of the daily routine of Susan Ball, a nurse's aide at Maryview.

As an interior decorator at Crim Floor Covering, Mary Ann Hurdle helps a customer select the proper fabric.

For his ICT job, Tommy Turner gains experience working as dental technician at Goodwin's Dental Lab.

Tommy Swindle perfects his skills in cabinet-making as part of his training in woodworking at Pittman's Cabinet Shop.

DE Members Learn By On-The-Job Experience

Gaining valuable sales experience in retail salesmanship, Helen Holland bags a customer's clothing purchase at The Red Barn.

By combining salesmanship training with on-the-job experience, the Distributive Education Club made the most of the year. Mr. Welsh took over as co-sponsor of the club, and his new ideas were an asset to all members. To raise money, candy bars were sold throughout the year. Once again the club sponsored a Christmas door decoration contest and awarded a plaque to the winning homeroom.

Social activities were by no means limited. A dance for members was held, and everyone helped put together a DE Club scrapbook. Later, members attended the district meeting at Great Bridge. Awards for "DE Student of the Year" and a demonstration and salesmanship speaking contest were also presented. At the end of the year an annual Employer-Employee Banquet for area DE students was held.

This year's officers were Phyllis Chadwick, president; Linda Holland, vice-president; Mercie Vick, secretary; David Golding, treasurer; Helen Holland, historian; Mr. Davis, Mr. Welsh, sponsors.

Johnny Allman waits on the counter at Karps Pharmacy in addition to his other jobs, such as the delivery of prescriptions throughout the area.

The sorting and labeling of hundreds of articles to be cleaned is just one job performed by June Hawkins at Westwood Cleaners.

Mercie Vick gains skills in stocking and displaying merchandise as she stacks spring handbags at Berson's.

Anne Liebenrood retrieves one of the many packages containing freshly-cleaned clothing from Churchland Cleaners.

Workers of various business firms as well as those in medical professions are served by Phyllis Chadwyck at the Uniform Shop.

With increased effort and enthusiasm, members of the Future Business Leaders of America played an active part in the club's various activities. Throughout the year they gave their time and service after school as aides to the Cancer Society. During the winter and early spring, they helped with the typing and prepared the pamplets that were to be distributed in the May drive, a drive in which they also participated. To provide a scholarship for the most outstanding business student of the year, funds were raised in doughnut and candy sales. Such programs as "The Art of Selling" and "Parliamentary Procedure" provided the members with knowledge that could be of use in the future. They also attended the FBLA Workshop and Regional Convention held at Old Dominion. The annual installation banquet for the upcoming officers ended the club's year.

Officers this year were Elaine Smith, president; Marsha Fink, vice-president; Polly Beale, secretary; Donna Angel, treasurer; and Miss Wright, sponsor.

As one of several social functions throughout the year, the FBLA Valentine party was enjoyed with gusto.

Linda,
Best of luck always to a sweet girl. I hope you have all the success in life and in the future. Have fun forget the fun we've had in gym class. Have fun this summer but be good.

Monogram Club Presents Letters For Softball

Strange creatures performing strange deeds roamed the halls during the week of Monogram Club initiations.

The Monogram Club began something new this year by offering letters to those girls who played on the girls' softball team during the past summer. After holding initiations in the fall for those girls and the new varsity cheerleaders, the membership of the club grew from eleven members to thirty-three, the largest that it has ever been. The club sponsored its annual Turkey Trot Dance at the American Legion Hall, as one of the ways it helped to raise money in order to furnish the girls' gym with curtains. At the conclusion of the basketball season, the club sponsored the student-faculty game to increase the fund for more tumbling mats. In the spring, initiations were held for the members who had earned basketball letters for the first time, and a picnic was held at Virginia Beach for all club members.

Officers for the year were Jeanne Powell, president; Margaret Long, vice-president; Gwynne Ormsby, treasurer; Mel Wittig, secretary; and Miss VanDyck, sponsor.

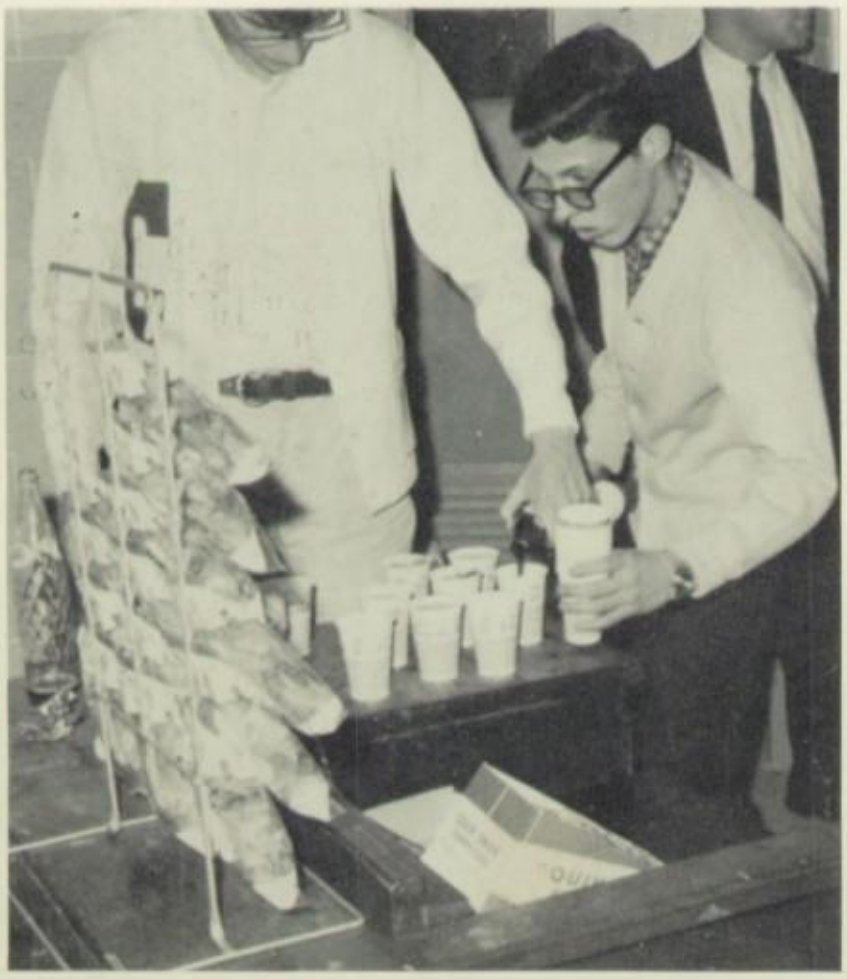
Beverly Lutz and Jack Humphreys pour drinks in expectation of the hungry half-time crowd.



The Varsity "C" Club was created not only to give a feeling of closeness among the athletes at Churchland, but also to serve the school in whatever ways possible. Their most important project was the sale of refreshments at home basketball games and wrestling matches. To accomodate the large crowds of fans, they found it necessary to operate two concession stands. In January they began taking orders for white football jerseys emblazoned with the school colors.

At the annual student-faculty game, the Varsity "C" members donned skirts to lead the fans in cheers and to encourage the opposing teams. In a final splurge to spend the money that they had earned, they ended the year's activity with a spring party for both members and their dates.

Officers were Ricky Hill, president; Dick Weatherford, vice-president; Tommy Dickens, secretary; Terry Helms, treasurer; Mel Kunkle and Ray Austin, sergeant-at-arms; and Mr. Burgess, sponsor.

Los Amigos Foster Spanish Outside Classroom

"Buenas dias"
"Hola! Que 'Tal?"

These were the sounds heard around CHS from students who were more than likely members of the Spanish Club. This organization is devoted to providing an opportunity to use Spanish outside of the classroom, to promoting a better understanding of Spanish-speaking nations and to encourage interest and achievement in the language itself. Its programs included visits from several foreign exchange students attending area high schools and other guest speakers who had an interest in Spanish.

The club's entry in this year's homecoming parade won the first prize award of $15. This money financed the Christmas party, which highlighted the last day of school before the holidays.

Leaders for the 1963-64 year were Barbara Johnson, president; Cindi Campbell, vice-president; Milly Simpson, secretary; Richard Henderson, treasurer.

Only a moment remains before Joanne Cross breaks the pinata and commences chaos amid the fallen candy at the annual Christmas party.

Science Club Programs Further Academic Pursuit

Don Robinson carefully explains his project to an interested listener at the CHS Science Fair held in February to display the work done by student scientists.

In fulfilling its purpose to further the scientific knowledge and interests of its members, the Science Club again undertook the role of an academic organization. Through programs consisting of movies and guest speakers, its members received a better understanding of scientific theory and achievement.

Some of the movies shown were from the Bell Telephone Science Series. One film, "Seconds for Survival," described and explained the communications network of the nation's defense systems. Several of the speakers were from Churchland's own student body. Stuart Katz and Carl Barrett presented an interesting program concerning their summer studies in oceanography. Bobby Jackson showed slides and talked on his study of astronomy which he had pursued in Green Bank, West Virginia.

Serving as officers for the year were Don Robinson, president; Linda Staffon, vice-president; Linda Powers, secretary; Clyde Kelly, treasurer; and Mr. Niemeyer, sponsor.

During the first few months of school, members of the Dramatics Club worked in preparation for their productions that were to come later in the year. Halloween candy was sold to raise money for their spring play, and Mr. Mark Thomas of the Portsmouth Little Theater spoke on the future of the American theater. As part of their Christmas program, Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus were interviewed in a lively skit, and toward the end of the year, the property room was cleared.

January marked the beginning of actual try-outs and rehearsals for Rerhearsal for Death, a mystery — comedy presented in three acts. This play was given as a rehearsal with a bare stage and no costumes. With its closing, the club ended another year of actual experience in play production.

Heading the Dramatics Club for the 1963-1964 year were Diana Kiss, president; Bobby Conway, vice-president; Diane Griffith, secretary-treasurer; Don Canterbury, Sergeant-at-arms; and Mr. Gwin, sponsor.

Bible Club Speakers Focus On Christian Lives

After singing a song to illustrate her talk, Mrs. Brenning, who in conjunction with her husband operates station WXRI-FM, an area Christian radio station, gives her personal testimony.

Juvenile delinquency was the topic of a discussion led by Rev. John Carroway at one meeting of the Bible Club. As a former detective, Rev. Carroway was well qualified to speak on this subject which he illustrated with demonstrations of the various weapons used by criminals.

Other guest speakers included Rev. Lamar Sentel, one of the foremost speakers in the area and Rev. Daymond Wyatt of the West Norfolk Baptist Church, who helped the club in an advisory capacity as did the sponsor, Mr. Branch.

With its purpose to promote Christian Fellowship, high morals, and good Christian lives, the Bible Club worked with the West Norfolk Baptist Teens for Christ and with other Portsmouth teen groups. The club also helped provide talented young people for Youtharama on WYAH-AM and WXRI-FM.

Serving as officers for the year were Dorcas Trembly, president; Philip Parker, vice president; Sandy Pickett, secretary; and Sherry Sebrell, treasurer; and Mr. Branch, sponsor.

Mrs. Woodling checks the score with the girls during an FHA bowling party held at Portsmouth Bowl in February.

Adopting a little girl as their yearly project, the members of the FHA spent many happy hours in providing her with clothing, toys, gifts, and love. A Christmas party, as well as remembrances on Valentine's Day, Easter, and her birthday, gave the club members many opportunities to share and give of themselves.

The Future Homemakers of America Club also enjoyed social activities such as a demonstration of the proper use of cosmetics in January, a Mother-Daughter banquet in April, and a picnic held in honor of the senior members during the month of May. The sale of cookbooks and vanilla provided finances for these activities.

Attending the spring workshop at Cox High completed the year's activities of one of CHS's most industrious clubs.

Officers for the year were Peggy Carter, president; Nina Beasley, vice-president; Mary Anne Hurdle, corresponding secretary; Diane Hines, recording secretary; Linda Jackson, treasurer; Mrs. Woodling, sponsor.

FTA Members Learn Through Practice Teaching

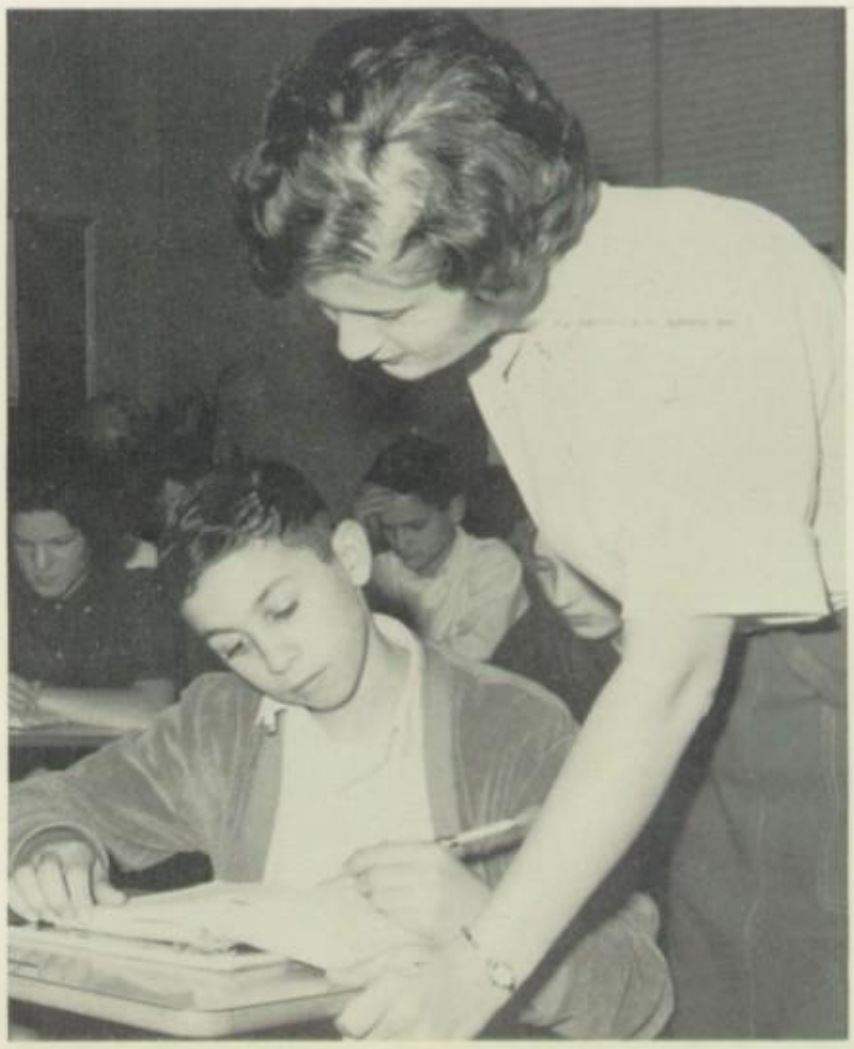
For a few hours once or twice a week, members of the Future Teachers of America gave up their role as students to become teachers, working with special groups and preparing lessons for discussions. However, their services were not limited to classes of elementary and junior high level. These student teachers were also on call to substitute in the high school.

In keeping with the purpose of the club, most of their projects emphasized the teaching profession and served to strengthen the student-teacher relationship at CHS. They undertook the beautification of the teacher's lounges and the selection of a teacher-of-the-month. In the spring they held an Easter egg roll at the elementary school, and at the end of the year they were able to give a scholarship to one club member with money raised by selling candy and pom-pons.

The officers for this year were Susan Venturini, president; Linda Lemasters ,vice-president; Ruth Ann Bartley, secretary; Jeanie Brewster, treasurer; Carla Griffin, historian; and Miss Beale, sponsor.

Steve Braintwain, a student in Mrs. Payne's eighth grade English class, received individual attention from practice teacher Susan Venturini.



Forgetting about calorie count for the moment, Mrs. Eastwood enjoys a cup of punch at the annual FTA Teachers' Tea held in December.

On Homecoming Day, FTA members Susan Venturini and Sandy Thomas give Sandy Warf her pompon as one of the 190 distributed to CHS supporters.

Choral Department Grows With Men's Group

Choral music at Churchland is focused on fulfilling a three-fold purpose: to teach the basic fundamentals of musicianship; to provide a knowledge of repetoire in as many periods of choral literature as possible; and to give the individual an opportunity in performance to present those compositions which he has learned and appreciated.

The addition of the Men's Glee Club this year gave more CHS students an opportunity to participate in choral music. Although it was a small group, the Men's Glee Club provided popular entertainment for such events as the Miss Churchland Contest. The Girls' Glee Club consisted of nearly 70 girls who were mostly underclassmen. Within this group, the girls became familiar with basic music theory necessary for further music study. Selected from these groups is the Mixed Chorus, which this year was decreased in size to maintain its high standards of quality. To be a part of the Mixed Chorus is a worthy achievement for any individual seriously interested in vocal music.

Three musical concerts highlighted the school year for Churchland patrons: the annual Christmas and Spring concerts and the Chesapeake All-City Heart Fund Benefit Concert. For the first time, the Christmas concert was given solely by the choral department, the CHS band presenting its concert the following night, and thus the large crowds were seated more easily. Again in the spring, the choral members participated in festival, a judging by strictest musicals standard. In the 1963 "festival", Churchland was the only school in Tidewater to receive a "One", the highest possible rating.

The greatest reward an individual can receive as a chorus member is selection for the Virginia All-State Chorus. Chosen by private auditions, 31 individuals represented Churchland at All-State this year.

Thus, 1963-64 brought individual and group achievement in the choral department.

Seven New Voices Find Places In Triple Trio

Hope Heilig, Fleet Hill, Helen McReady, Joan Daughtry, Kathy Oliver, Patsy Jones, Harriet Moran, Pat Arledge, Joan Doxey, Eleanor Woolard—accompanist.

The Churchland High School Triple Trio has become one of the most well-known musical groups in this area. It is composed of nine girls, who are chosen for their talent, experience and willingness to work. This year, following strenuous auditions, the Triple Trio started with seven new members and a new accompanist. These new members received emblems for their white blazers signifying this achievement.

The favorable comments that the Triple Trio receives are the results of continuous before-school rehearsals. Individual rehearsals by each girl at home are also required. Once the girls have mastered the mechanics of their music, the "polish" comes with the help of their director, Mrs. Virginia Blake.

This year the Triple Trio was quite a traveling group. Not only did the group enrich CHS assemblies, but it also preformed for many civic clubs and for such school sponsored programs as the "Miss Churchland" Contest. The Triple Trio's biggest aim during the year was to again achieve a "one" rating in festival, a symbol of excellent musicianship.

Mrs. Blake indicates to Harriet Moran, student director, a passage in "He, Watching Over Israel" which the mixed chorus performed in the spring.

Band Performances Merit Bravos Of CHS

The CHS Band has represented the student body often through its many public performances. This year the band put on twelve half-time shows during football season for the public's enjoyment. Also throughout the season the band helped to boost school spirit by playing fight songs at the games.

The band also represented the school at the Oyster Bowl and Memorial Day Parades.

Through assembly programs at various times during the year, the band consistently presented to the student body music and entertainment. Later in the year the band presented musical programs to all the elementary schools in this area and to Frederick College. During the concert season the band increased the holiday spirit and atmosphere through its Christmas Concert.

With the coming of Spring the band members began to feel a sense of apprehension, because it was that time of year when the Spring Band Festival arrived. Who can possibly forget the long hours of practice for the Festival? Or that jittery feeling as the curtain opened? And the tension accompaning the announcement of the ratings?

Because the band must represent CHS on so many occasions, it is sometimes necessary for the members to sell candy or go on some other money-making drive to help buy new uniforms or equipment.

All in all, the key words in the band are "hard work". Each member of the CHS Band strives to make his organization more integral part of the community, as well as a real asset to the school.

Lunchtime Blessing Given By Churchland Tri-Hi-Y

Having earned the "ace" club award last year, Churchland Tri-Hi-Y set out again with high standards to retain this honor. The membership was boosted to thirty, and the club swung into operation with the project of saying grace at each lunch half. For two months the club collected clothes and articles which were contributed to Goodwill Industries. The girls kept busy by making Thanksgiving favors for the children at Maryview Hospital and by holding a "slave for a day" raffle. The Mr. and Miss Churchland Contest, biggest and most difficult undertaking of the year, presented local talent and beauty on Valentine's Eve. The $150.00 profit from this was given to YMCA World Service.

Officers for the year were Fleet Hill, president; Cindi Campbell, vice-president; Sheila Miltier, secretary; Marilyn Jersild, treasurer; Gayle Seckler, chaplain; Betty Ann Warrick, historian; Bonnie Broughton, corresponding secretary; Julia Spencer, sergeant-at-arms; Miss Van Dyck, sponsor.

Truckers Tri-Hi-Y Helps Install YMCA Elevator

"Going once, going twice!" Excitement mounts with the frantic bidding at the White Elephant Sale held in December.

Again having an "ace" rating for a goal, the members of Truckers Tri-Hi-Y began 1963-64 participating in various through-the-seasons activities. Contributions were made to World Service, the Elevator Fund, and the Extension Fund. Through making tray favors for older citizens at Thanksgiving and by contributing to the Joy Fund in December, the girls had the opportunity to carry out part of the club's purpose of sharing. The Christmas spirit at CHS was furthered when the members made cards for the faculty. Valentines were given to some children in the hospital on Valentine's Day, and at the Easter season contributions of food were provided for the needy. By the sale of Stanley Products, the girls were able to raise needed finances.

The year's officers were Joan Daughtrey, president, who also served as district secretary; Mel Wittig, vice-president; Rebecca Hatchell, secretary; Minta Davenport, treasurer; Peggy Hall, chaplain; Connie Hemby, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Arledge, sponsor.

Fulfilling her duty as "Sweetheart" of the Hi-Y, Linnea Woodling adds her feminine viewpoint in a discussion with Ricky Hill, Jack Brown and Ted Cuthriell.

With their vice-president, Momo Whitlow having been elected vice-president of next year's District Council, Truckers Hi-Y got off to a rapid start for the events to come. One of their earliest projects was the building of their homecoming float. A novel idea for the year was the selling of programs at home basketball games. As another money-making project the members conducted a candy drive.

To carry out part of the club's purpose of contributing toward world and community service, Truckers Hi-Y provided food and other essentials to a needy family during Christmas. Through a donation of money to the World Service program, the boys acquired a sense of sharing and personal satisfaction in helping someone else.

To lead the Hi-Y for the year, the club chose Ricky Hill, president; Momo Whitlow, vice-president; Donald Major, secretary; Billy Murden, treasurer; Mel Kunkle and Jack Brown, sergeants-at-arms. Mr. Gatling again served as club sponsor.

Truckers' Hi-Y concludes another money-making project as some loyal CHS supporters purchase basketball programs from David Monacelli at the Churchland-Wilson game, the last of the season.

Through work and donations to such needy causes as a Korean orphanage, the members of Cem Tri-Hi-Y carried their motto of "high standards of Christian character" into effect throughout the year. The girls combined efforts in the construction of a homecoming float based on "The Old Woman and the Shoe." In February they conducted a bake sale, sold CHS stationery, and held a rummage sale. Their pep signs helped the cheerleaders in fostering school spirit.

Cem members provided recreation both for themselves and for others by sponsoring and attending several festive occasions. During spring vacation, the girls held the annual Bunny Hop Dance, the proceeds of which were given to World Service. The new officers were installed at the Mother-Daughter banquet.

Officers for 1964 were Janet Weatherford, president; Ann Dowell, vice-president, Susan Mero, secretary; Betty Carol Bell, treasurer; Diane Spence, chaplain; and Miss Berry and Mrs. Moore, sponsors.

"I'd like to have this," comments Susie Loudon to Wenona Vann, Margie Chapman, and Janet Weatherford, while looking over clothes for their February rummage sale.

A stern reprimand from Mike Gompf restores order during an enthusiastic discussion about obtaining a sister Tri-Hi-Y.

A goal of one hundred dollars for a trophy case at the Y.M.C.A. was the yearly project for Dick Shea Hi-Y. Among numerous other projects, the boys brought food for a needy family and raised money for World Service. The members spent several weeks constructing their Homecoming float which was called the "Wildcats in the Well" and awarded second prize.

With Mr. Lawyer as its sponsor, Dick Shea Hi-Y has grown and matured beyond highest expectations. Having been in existence for the short duration of one year, it has become one of the leading Hi-Y's in the Southern District.

School spirit at Churchland found itself constantly in the minds of Dick Shea members. They also allotted time and talent to a "Keep the Cafeteria Clean" campaign.

Officers for 1963-64 were Mike Gompf, president; Bill Spain, vice-president; Milton Miller, secretary; Bill Joe Waldo, treasurer; Jim Pitt and Marty Martin, sergeants-at-arms; and Mr. Lawyer, sponsor.

Annual Fashion Show Clues Truckers On Styles

Windows and blackboards are washed down as a service project carried on by Webb during the year.

"Stylish, Ivy, Up-to-date" were but a few of the comments heard about the clothes shown at Webb's fashion show which again "clued" the Truckers in on forthcoming styles. With this third annual showing, the "Webbers" continued their pace-setting activities. By collecting food and toys for a needy family and by caroling at the Manning Convalescent Home, Webb Tri-Hi-Y carried out its purpose of sharing with others during the holiday season. With such activities as the Mother-Daughter Banquet, making the homecoming float, and the sleepless pajama party, the members learned to have a good time while achieving a worthwhile purpose. Ending the year with a beach party made the girls realize that Webb Tri-Hi-Y does much in showing the value of workng and playing together.

Serving as officers for the year were Nancy Turnage, president; Charlotte Noles, vice-president; Alice Eure, secretary; Susan Davenport, treasurer; Shirley Dawson, chaplain; and Miss Rountree, sponsor.

Perrecta Raises Funds For Exchange Student

Having been founded by Succedo Tri-Hi-Y last year, Perrecta became affiliated this September and began to play an active role in school activities. To raise funds for the exchange student program, it sponsored several candy bar and bake sales. Not only did it bring to life the nursery rhyme of the crooked man in its homecoming float, but its posters also helped foster spirit for the Wilson—Churchland basketball game.

Its projects were many and varied. Fruit baskets were given to the faculty members on Valentine's Day, and at Easter a party was given for the children in Maryview Hospital. It held a joint meeting with one of the Wilson Tri-Hi-Y's and took it upon themselves to clean the Y.M.C.A. Delegates represented the club at the Model General Assembly and a Mother-Daughter Banquet ended the year's activities.

Officers were Martha Misek, president; Bernadine Rodier, vice-president; Bonnie Fischer, secretary; Cathy Wittig, treasurer; and Mrs. Knaub, sponsor.

In observance of Valentine's Day, Bernadine Rodier and Karin O'Neal place candy-filled baskets in the teachers' lounge.

Valentines emerge from red paper and doilies as Leona Hansen and Sandy Baily work on Succedo's February service project.

To carry out the Tri-Hi-Y purpose this year, Succedo's members sought to spread joy and good will among those less fortunate than they. Early in the fall their conversation and refreshments brightened the home for the aged in Westhaven, and on Valentine's Day they carried favors to the three hospitals in the vicinity. At Christmas, they donated canned food to the school's welfare drive and later contributed to World Service, a service that helps people of other countries.

In order to raise money for such projects, the girls displayed their culinary skills in a series of bake sales held at Mid-City and Sears. While the weather was still warm, they donned sweat shirts and old pants to wash cars and then turned in their pails to become toothbrush salesmen.

The club's officers for the year were Margaret Long, president; Lorraine Speers, vice-president; Vivian Waters, treasurer; Suzie Woodward, secretary; Brenda Spruill, chaplain; and Miss Nelson, sponsor.

Exam Tension Relieved By Pierette Club Dance

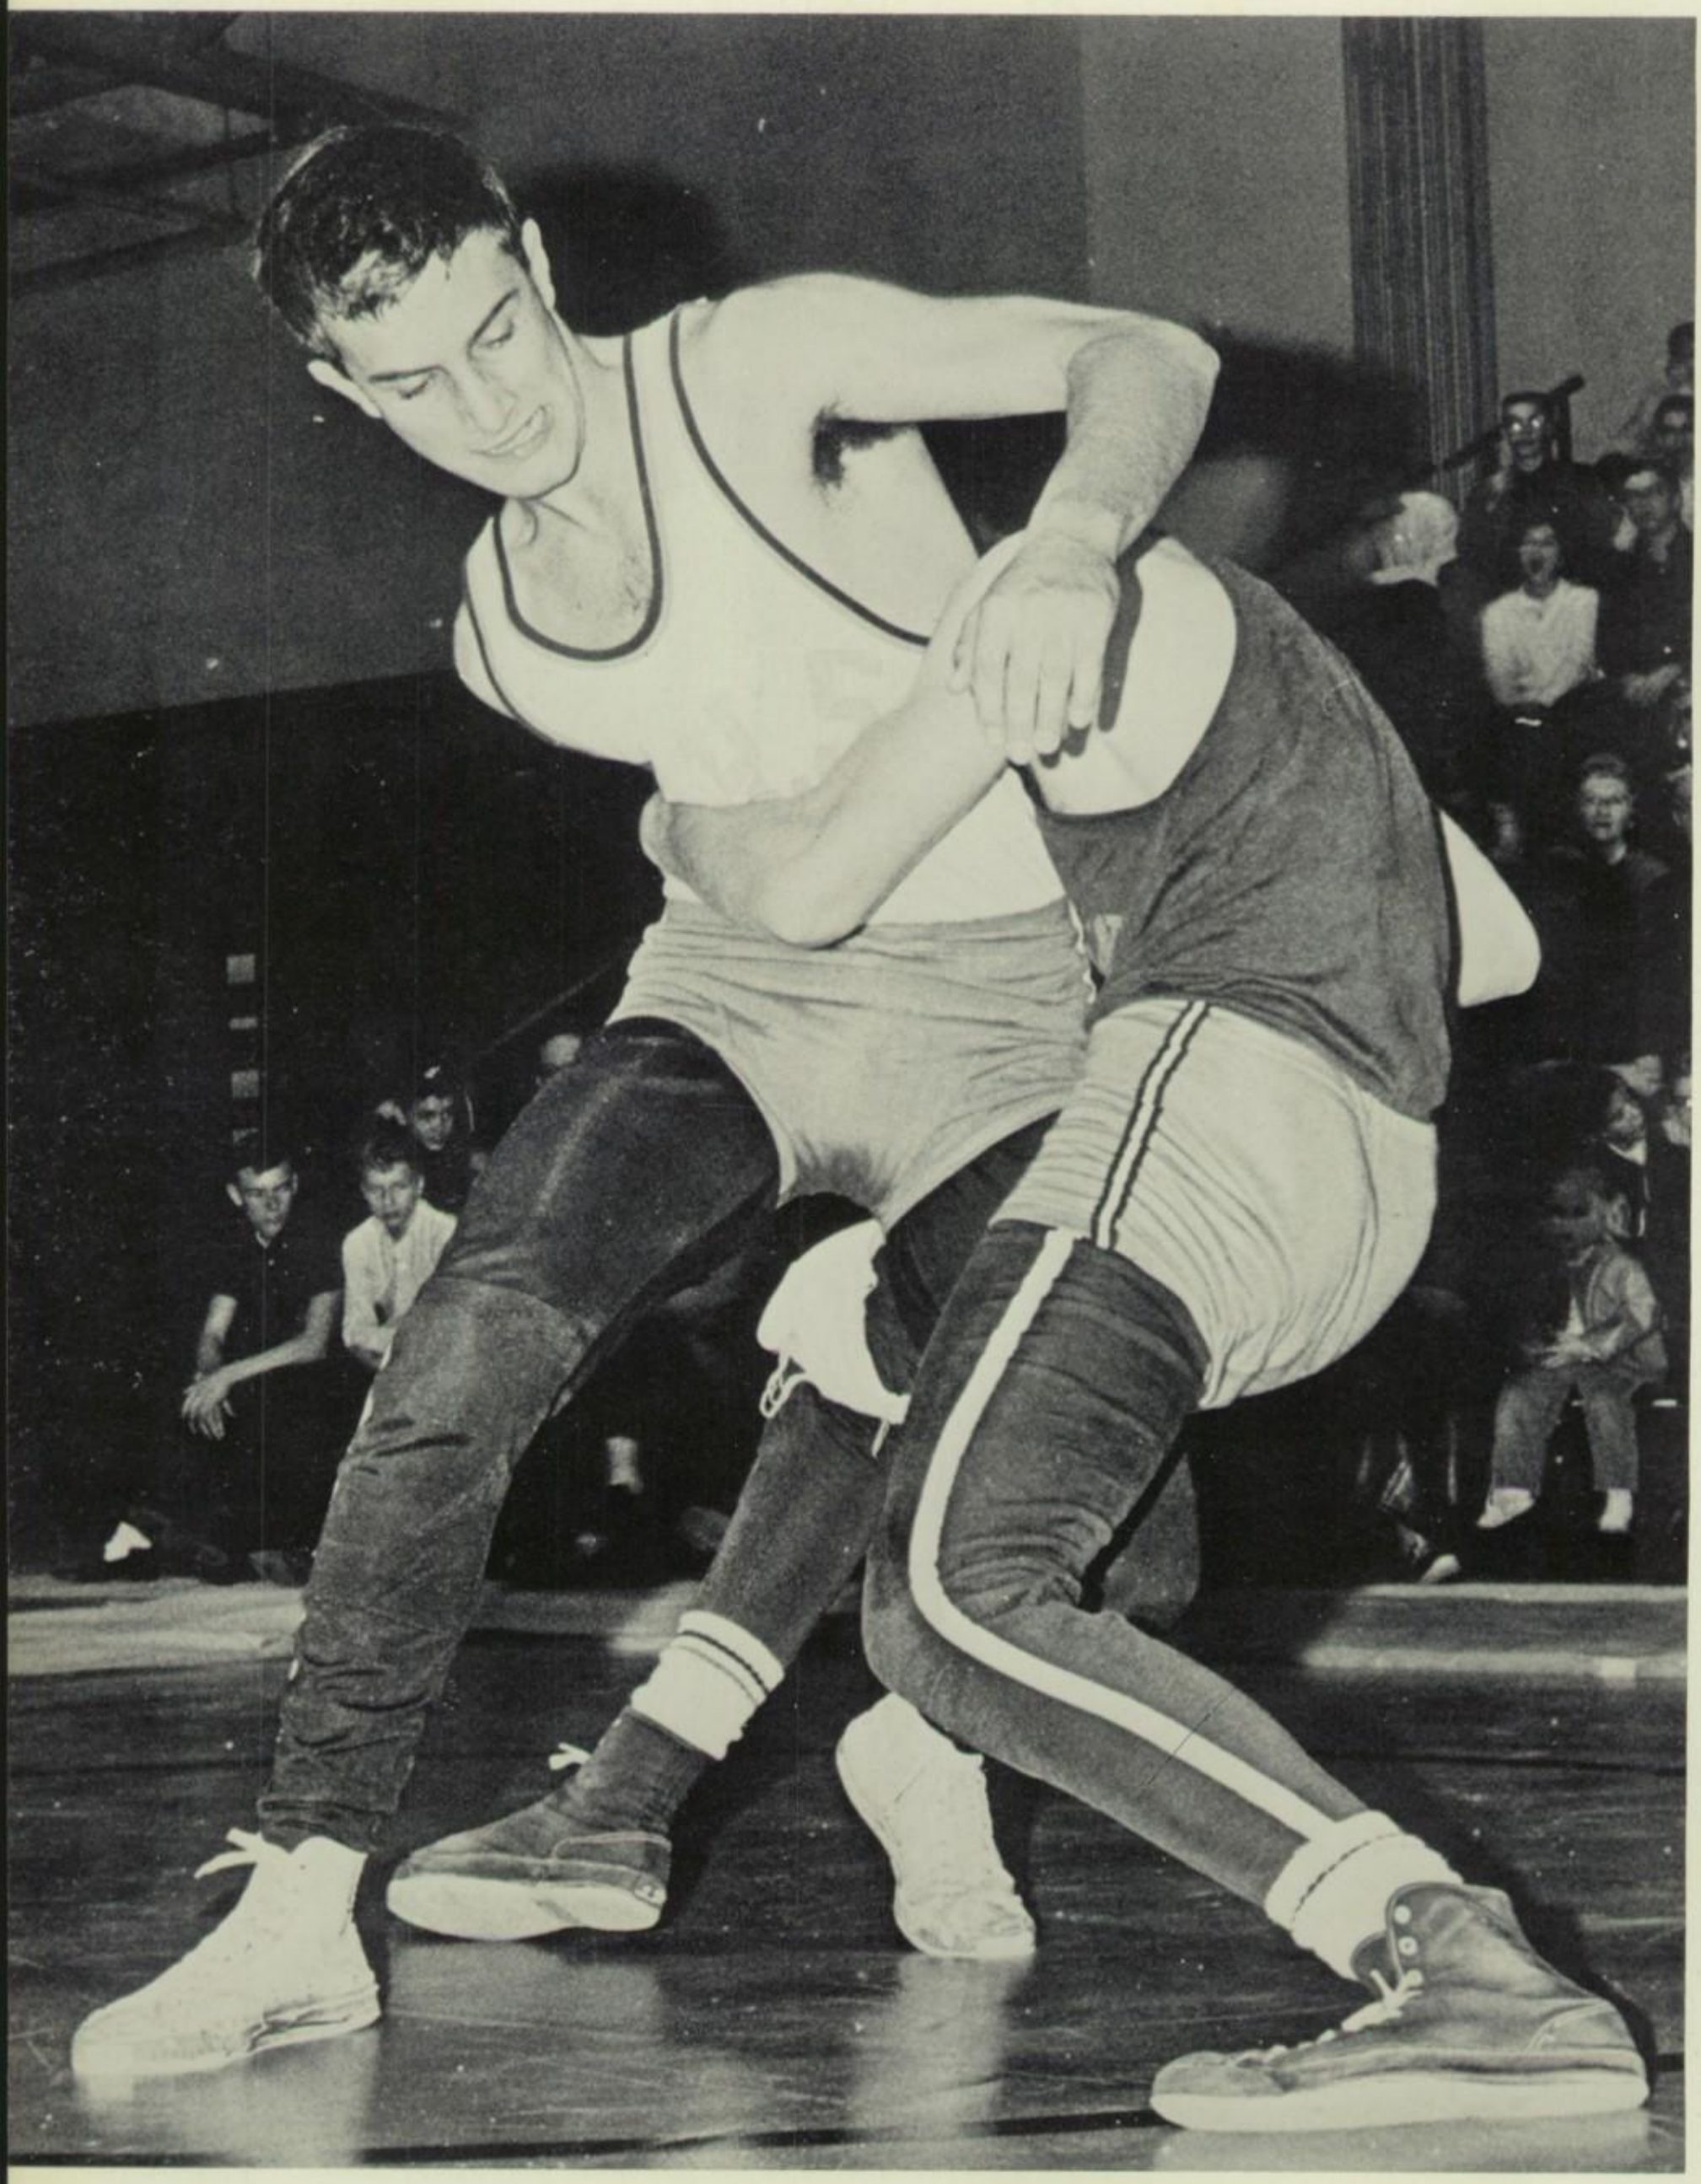
The height of Pierette Club activities came on the twenty-third of January with its dance to celebrate the end of mid-year exams. Truckers crowded into the Planter's Club to lose their cares amid music provided by the Four Roses.

The funds needed to sponsor activities such as this were raised in various club projects. Their homecoming float, based on the nursery rhyme, "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater," was presented with the third place prize money. Later in the year, members sold fire extinguishers and road flares.

For the first time since the year of the club's formation, a tea was held for all senior girls so that they might learn the correct etiquette and apparel for graduation. Having met to select new members, each girl then presented her successor with an invitation, and thus ended her year.

The club's officers for the year were Helen Holland, president; Marcy Jacobs, vice-president; Cindi Campbell, secretary; Elayne Wishart, treasurer; Marilyn Jersild, chaplain; and Mrs. Cline, sponsor.

Beverly Ginsburg, Pam Chase, and Marcy Jacobs sell their wares at the Pierette Club bake sale as a customer looks incredulously at her purchase.



CHS Athletic Program Stresses Teamwork By Individual Participation

There is no other medium that demonstrates individual effort as well as athletic participation. Athletic excellence is of equal importance to scholastic excellence. "A sound mind in a sound body" was the philosophy of the ancient Spartans, and it is of equal importance today. Individual e f f o r t is readily seen when one participant exerts himself beyond normal expectancy in order to make a fantastic play or to score a game-winning point. But, just as important, is the endeavor of the teammates who set up the play or point and those behind the scenes who do not make the headlines, for the individual who excels in sport is no stronger than the team members who back him up.

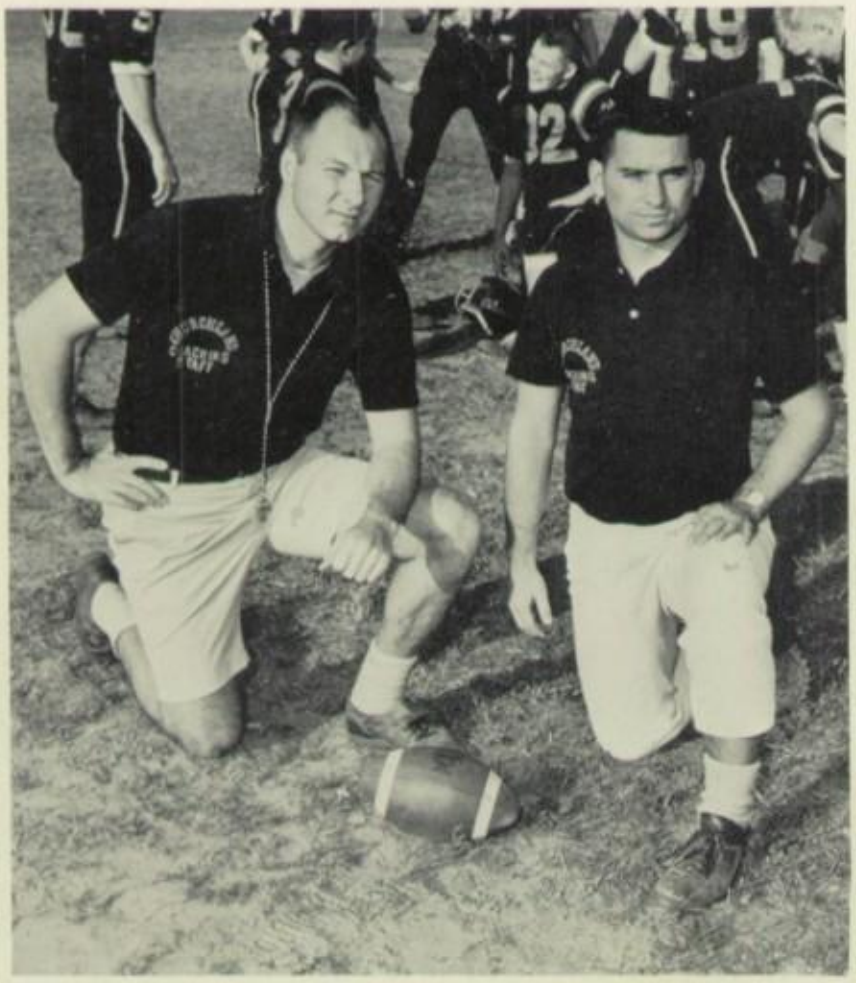
Coaches Art Brandriff and Blake Yost



Mr. Arthur Lemasters, equipment manager, and Gary Estes, manager.

Under new coaches Art Brandriff and Blake Yost, the Churchland Truckers had their best season in the past five years by compiling a 7-3 season record. This gave them their best record ever in Group One. The 7-3 mark placed the Truckers fourth in the district and put them behind Wilson, Great Bridge, and Princess Anne, the only teams to beat them.

Playing great ball under their two new coaches, the Truckers displayed many traits which were characteristic of the good team that they had. They showed desire, hustle, class, spirit, comeback, and team play in piling up seven victories against three defeats. Besides the success of the team Kenny Currie and Ray Austin were picked on the annual All-Tidewater team.

The success of the team came as a nice surprise to Coach Brandriff, and as the team improved, they became one of the powers in the Eastern District and a team that was respected by all.

Kenny Atkinson is tackled by Great Bridge's Fella Rhodes (22) and Joe Bonneville after catching a pass for a long gain.

Churchland 14—Maury 0

Under adverse conditions of driving wind and rain, the Truckers started the season off right by whipping the Commodores 14 to 0. The Truckers scored both touchdowns in the second half. Kenny Currie scored the first on a 10 yard jaunt and Tommy Dickens the second on a 16 yard scamper. George Constantinides was a stalwart on offense, and along with Ray Austin, the two excelled on defense.

Churchland 6—Newport News 0

The Truckers pulled their biggest upset of the season by defeating Newport News 6 to 0. As 4,500 stunned fans looked on, Currie scored the lone touchdown of the game by ripping the Newport News line for 14 yards and capping the 71 yard march which had begun on the Trucker's own 29. The Truckers completely dominated the game by using their ball control offense and hard nose defense.

Churchland 7—Deep Creek 0

Churchland followed through with its unbeaten, untied, unscored upon drive as it downed Deep Creek 7 to 0. Austin and Brown led the vigorous defense that saved the Truckers from a strong passing effort by a determined Hornet eleven. A 21 yard run by Currie again ended in the game's only touchdown and Dickens ran over for the extra point. Thus, Churchland went into its fourth game as a team undefeated and unscored against.

Churchland 26—Princess Anne 29

In a game termed the best of the year in the Eastern District, the Truckers displayed amazing skill as they fought Princess Anne "down to the wire". Behind 16 to 0, the Truckers scored two quick touchdowns to make it 16 to 13 at the half. Then they returned to match the Cavaliers point for point until the clock found them stranded on the 8 yard line with no time left in the game. With some fine passing by Dickens, who completed 14 of 20 passes; amazing receiving by Atkinson; and dazzling running by Currie, the Truckers almost pulled the game out of the fire.

Churchland 6—Great Bridge 21

As a homecoming crowd of 5,500 looked on, the Truckers were defeated by their Chesapeake rival 21 to 6. The Truckers played a good game as they edged the Wildcats in the statistics. Currie hit Kenny Atkinson with a 21 yard aerial for the Truckers' only touchdown. Dickens was the game's leading passer, and Currie, the game's total offensive leader.

Churchland 12—Granby 7

The airways told the story as Churchland edged the Comets 12 to 7. Dickens passed to Atkinson on a 17 yard scoring play for the Truckers' first touchdown, and a 20 yard pass from Currie to Hill resulted in the second. Thus the Truckers ran up their record to 4-2, doubling the total numbers of victories in the past two years.

Churchland 7—Wilson 27

Before a crowd of 8,000, the largest in Churchland's history, the Truckers bowed to Wilson 27 to 7. Under extreme conditions of fog, the Truckers played their biggest rival on even terms for three quarters before the Presidents exploded for two touchdowns in the final period. Currie scored the Truckers' only touchdown on a 79 yard run. Dickens kicked for the extra point, and that completed the Truckers' scoring for the night.

Churchland 45—Suffolk 12

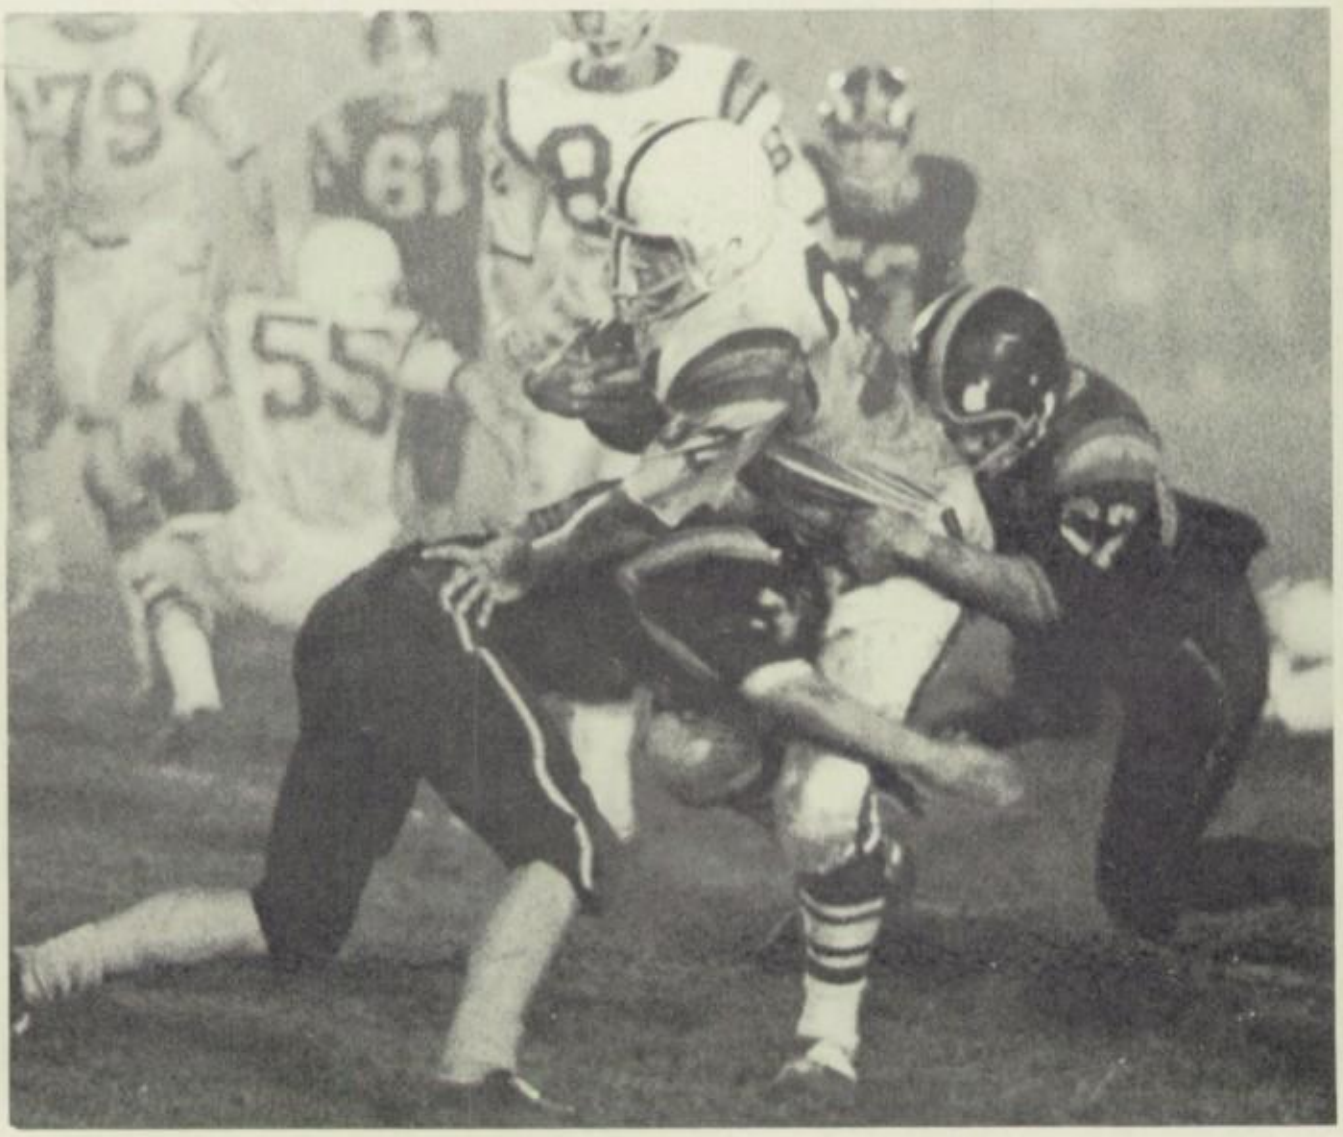
The Truckers got back on the winning trail by overwhelming Suffolk 45 to 12. Dickens was outstanding on offense, directing the Truckers in the romp. He completed 7 of 13 passes for 184 yards and ran for an additional 103 yards, as he scored two touchdowns and passed for three others. Currie and Hill were also outstanding on offense. Currie scored three touchdowns and Hill caught two touchdown passes. Jack Brown and Austin were again outstanding on defense.

Churchland 40—Oscar Smith 6

The Truckers continued their offensive splurge as they surprisingly romped over the Tigers 40 to 6. Tommy Dickens and Kenny Currie were again outstanding on offense along with workhorses Mel Kunkle and George Constantinides. Dickens passed for three touchdowns and scored one. Currie scored three touchdowns. Coach Brandriff termed this game "our best effort".

Churchland 19—Cradock 7

The Truckers ended their season in an effort against Cradock and ended it successfully by beating them 19 to 7. Constantinides ended the season just as he started it by starring on offense and defense. He picked up 109 yards rushing and scored a touchdown on a 22 yard run. Dickens scored a touchdown and so did Hill on a 49 yard pass from Currie. With this final win, the Truckers put the finishing touches on a successful 7-3 season.



Joe Braintwain (31) and Jack Brown (62) cut down Wilson's Frank Culpepper (32) after a short gain.

As tension mounts, Truckers take time out to discuss strategy during Newport News game.

Ken Morgan (80) waits for a pass as Buddy Pleasants (38) of Cradock rushes in to smear him.

Running back an intercepted pass, Ken Currie (16) gets key blocks from Jack Brown (62), Joe Braintwain (31), and Gary Lawson (40).

After catching a pass, Ken Atkinson (26) of Churchland sprints for yardage as PA's Fred Gray (40) rushes in to cut him off.

Wayne Lance (13) of Maury is brought down by George Constantinides as Neal Parker (27) and Jimmy Walker (20) of Maury block in vain. Gene Brown (30) rushes in to assist on tackle.

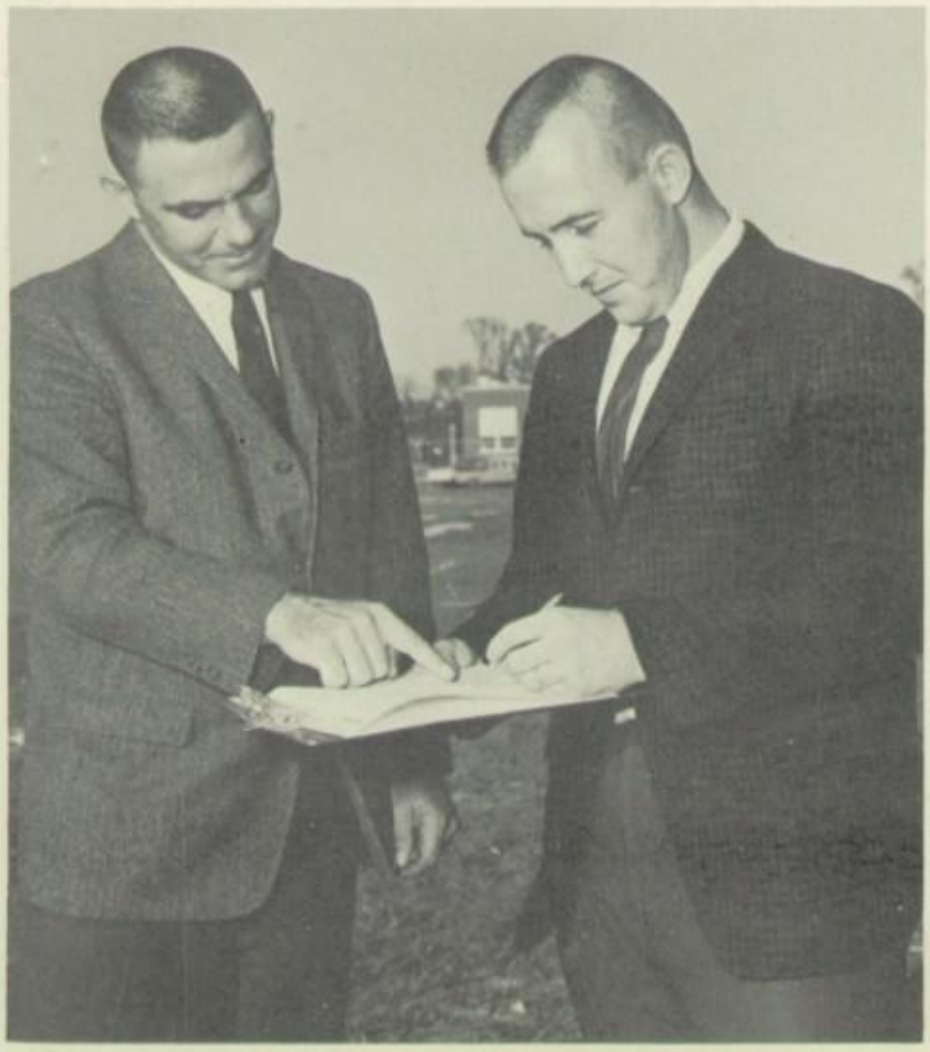
Coaches Nick Lawyer and Preston Burton



The Baby Truckers, under new coaches Preston Burton and Nick Lawyer, compiled a 3-4 record. They started out the season with an impressive 21-0 romp over Maury, and then till the end of the season the victories and losses seesawed back and forth. In the annual Apple Bowl affair, sponsored by the Band Parents Association, the Truckers lost a close contest with Wilson. Danny James received the trophy for the outstanding player of the game for the Truckers.

Preparations for these games had begun in August and were followed up with after-school practices as the boys concentrated on exercises designed to increase their endurance and improve their skill. Scrimmages with the varsity also put their knowledge to work.

The Truckers showed a great team desire and team hustle under their new coaches. They also showed strength in their line and backfield as time after time the line would open up large holes for the backs to pick up considerable gains. In addition, the Truckers showed good sportsmanship. With such outstanding players as Danny James and Francis Smith in the backfield and Doug Ricks in the line, the JV's are sending some well-trained players to the varsity team next year.

Cheerleaders Sell Shakers, Boost School Spirit

Leaping high into the air at the Cradock pre-game pep rally, JV and Varsity cheerleaders combine to lead the Truckers in a cheer.

"Buy a shaker before you get left out!" This cry echoed throughout the halls as the cheerleaders attempted to promote school spirit at the basketball games. This was just one of the many activities in which they were involved during the year.

In September, they "spearheaded" the drive to encourage and promote school spirit. Conducting pep rallies helped to arouse the emotions of the student body and to instill school spirit. Making the signs worn by the players and hanging posters in the halls, these girls gave the team pep and desire, which are the necessary elements for a team to have success and a student body to maintain active support. By taking an active part in Quiet Day and encouraging the wearing of school colors on Color Day, the Varsity and JV cheerleaders presented the typical picture of one dedicated to making CHS a success.

Linda - Best of luck to a real sweet girl. It's really enjoyed knowing you these past few years. Be good and come see me sometime, ok?
Be good and take care.
Love.

Cross Country Team Produces State Champion

CROSS COUNTRY TRACK TEAM, Kneeling: Leonard Hillars, George Pittman, Tommy Potts, Jack Humphreys, Mike Gompf, Jimmie Ford, Henry Brown. Standing: Boyd Pace, Larry Kellam, Beverly Lutz, Butch Lowder, Wayne Hitchings, Hunter Roop, Billy McGlaughon, Mr. Burgess.

Among the youngest of competitive sports at CHS, the cross country track team has already assumed a place of prominence in both the district and the state. This fact has come about to a great extent from the excellent performances of sophomore Wayne Hitchings. He has attained many honors and awards in addition to being undefeated in every meet. In winning all of his dual meets, by taking first place in the Portsmouth Jaycee Invitational Meet and the Eastern District Meet, as well as the State Meet, Wayne set new records and caused an upset by defeating Steve Lyons of Washington and Lee in the State Meet. As a sophomore this year, Wayne's prospects of improving on his own records are bright.

Though winning only two of its team meets the cross country team is destined to improve for it is characterized as being a young team. With hard work and training and the intense coaching of Mr. Burgess, this team is sure to offer stiff competition to all opponents in the coming years.

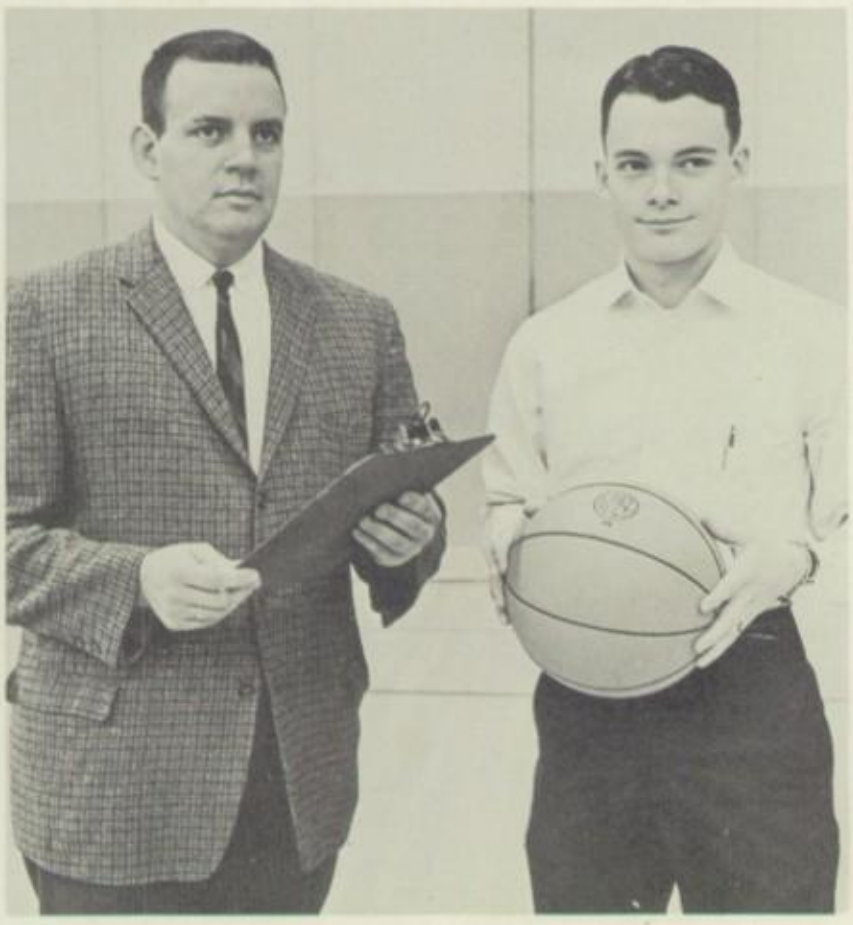
Truckers Compile 12-8 Record For Sixth Place

Coach Charles Bolton and Manager Gary Estes.



Having one of the best balanced scoring teams in the Eastern District, the Churchland Truckers completed another successful season in Group I. By tieing Great Bridge for sixth place, the Truckers earned a berth in the annual tournament, held this year at the Frederick College Arena. In addition to having one of the best teams in the district, the team also had one of the district's best players in Dick Balderson, who placed fourteenth in scoring with a 14.5 average. Besides making the District I Tournament, the Truckers, in the first annual Chesapeake City Tournament, finished in second place. Of the twelve wins during the season perhaps the one that stands out is the conference victory against Great Bridge.

A team with desire, comeback, and ability, the Truckers established themselves as a power in the district, and they furnished stiff competition to all opponents.

Hard Work And Desire Give JV's 12-6 Record

By finishing the season with a 12-6 win-lost record, the JV team surprised most of their loyal supporters. Starting off the season with a new coach, Mr. Howard, there was little hope for a winning season, even though the new coach instilled within the boys the desire to win. These 12 victories did not come easily; much to the contrary. They came only after long, hard hours of fundamental drills, and after going home every night to spend the remaining hours of the day studying.

What the team lacked in height, poise, and speed, they made up in determination, skill, and sportsmanship. If one were to listen to the sounds heard in the gym on any given day, surely he would hear "Come on, how do we expect to win if we play like this? Hustle, fight." From the locker room, "Play with your head, your heart, and your stomach. Nothing else." All of these hard times and good times plus love of the game made this a very successful season.

Coach Ernest Howard and Manager Mike Norris.

Explosive Truckerette Offense Nets 11-5 Record

Miss Gracie Lee VanDyck, coach, and Margaret Long, captain.

Enjoying a successful season, the girl's basketball team kept up with both the JV and Varsity teams. Led by their captain Margaret Long and such outstanding players as Gwynne Ormsby, Jeanne Powell, and Paulette Spruill, the Truckerettes displayed one of their best teams in years. They furnished home fans much excitement and enjoyment throughout the year as they rolled over opponent after opponent. By furnishing their opponents some tough competition, this team proved to be an outstanding one. Displaying good teamwork and much effort, along with an explosive offense and a stiff defense, the Truckerettes proved to be one of the best girl's teams in the area. With a won-loss record of 11-5, including two wins in the Christmas tournament at St. Pauls', and the prospect of having a majority of the girls returning, the Tuckerettes should be the team to watch next year.

Under new coaches, wrestling was brought back to Churchland after a year's absence. The new CHS grapplers afforded some very strong competition throughout the season. Although not being too successful record-wise, the Truckers showed that they will be a team to be reckoned with in the future years. To look forward would be to say that this team's future looks bright, for, out of the twelve boys that wrestled, only one of the wrestlers is a senior. The Truckers displayed good sportsmanship and excelled in their knowledge and skill of the sport. After completing their season, they entered the regional tournament and finished tenth with six points, sending George Constantinides to the state meet in Danville. With this new look turning to an experienced one through seasoned wrestlers, the Truckers can look to the future years with much anticipation for success.

Track Teams Offer Stiff Competition In All Meets

In previous years track has been considered a minor sport. However, due to the prestige and glory which the track team brought to CHS in 1963-1964, it certainly must be considered one of the important sports at the school. The 1963 outdoor team was one of the better ones in the area since it was unbeaten in dual competition. This team also had one of the best all-around performers in the area in Terry Helms, who won the Dick Shea Track Award for his second straight year. Besides being unbeaten in dual competition, this team won the Chesapeake City Meet held at CHS.

During the winter, the indoor track team rolled over all opponents in completing an unbeaten season. After this, they competed in the state meet in Lexington, and finished in a very close third. With practically all of the team returning for the 1964 season, the Truckers surely could be the premier team in Eastern District meets.

1963 Truckers Finish Season With 9-5 Record

Before practice, Randy Williams works on perfecting his pitching as he completes his windup.

Playing their second year under coach Charles Bolton, the Truckers nine of 1963 proved itself as one of the better teams in the Eastern District. This proved to be a season of glory and great accomplishment for a team that finished fourth in the district with a 9-5 record. This team boasted three of the best pitchers in the league in Dickie Balderson, Denny Riddleberger and Eddie Smith. This trio combined to limit opposing teams to a little over two runs per game. It also had one of the best hitters in the entire league in Tommy Dickens who finished thirteenth with a .349 batting average. In addition to the individual performances, the team pulled one of the biggest upsets of the season in defeating Hampton 6-4 in the War Memorial stadium. With six of the nine regulars returning, along with one of the starting pitchers, the Trucker nine will continue to menace Eastern District teams in the future.

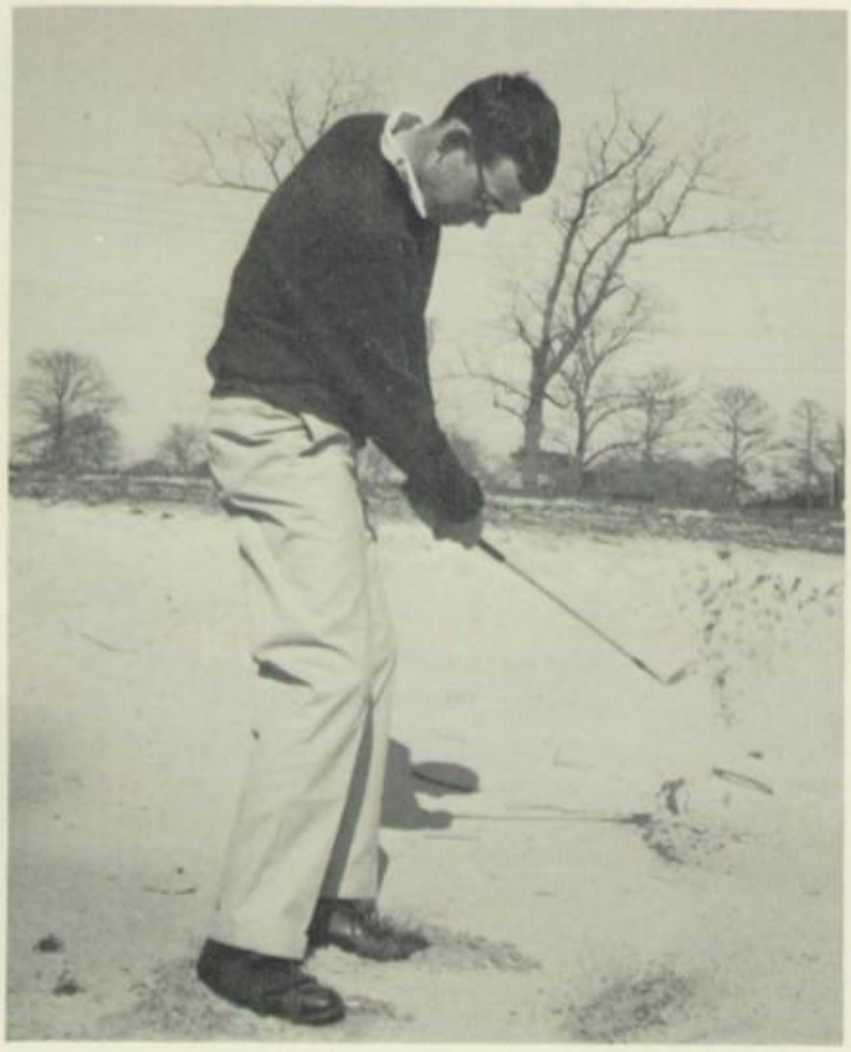
Golf Team Captures State And District Honors



Paul McRae blasts out of a wet sand trap during practice at the Elizabeth Manor golf course.

Golf at Churchland High School is a very successful sport, for the team is considered one of the best in the Eastern District and in the state. In regular team competition with Tidewater high schools Churchland ranked first during the 1963 season. In the post season tournament the team captured second place, sweeping nearly all honors in the district. The state tournament held in Charlottesville rewarded the CHS golf team with its greatest honor, third place in the state. Individual distinction came to the golf team, too, for the team boasted the district's fourth best golfer in J. P. Leigh and second best statewide golfer in Mike Wynn. The top four men of the team consisted of these two plus Paul McRae and Butch Smith. Mr. Joe Smith was the 1963 golf team coach.

The 1964 golf team has great expectations with such a fine record and the return of three of the top four men. A new coach, Mr. Ernest Howard, and the steady practice by the team are good basis for another successful golf year.

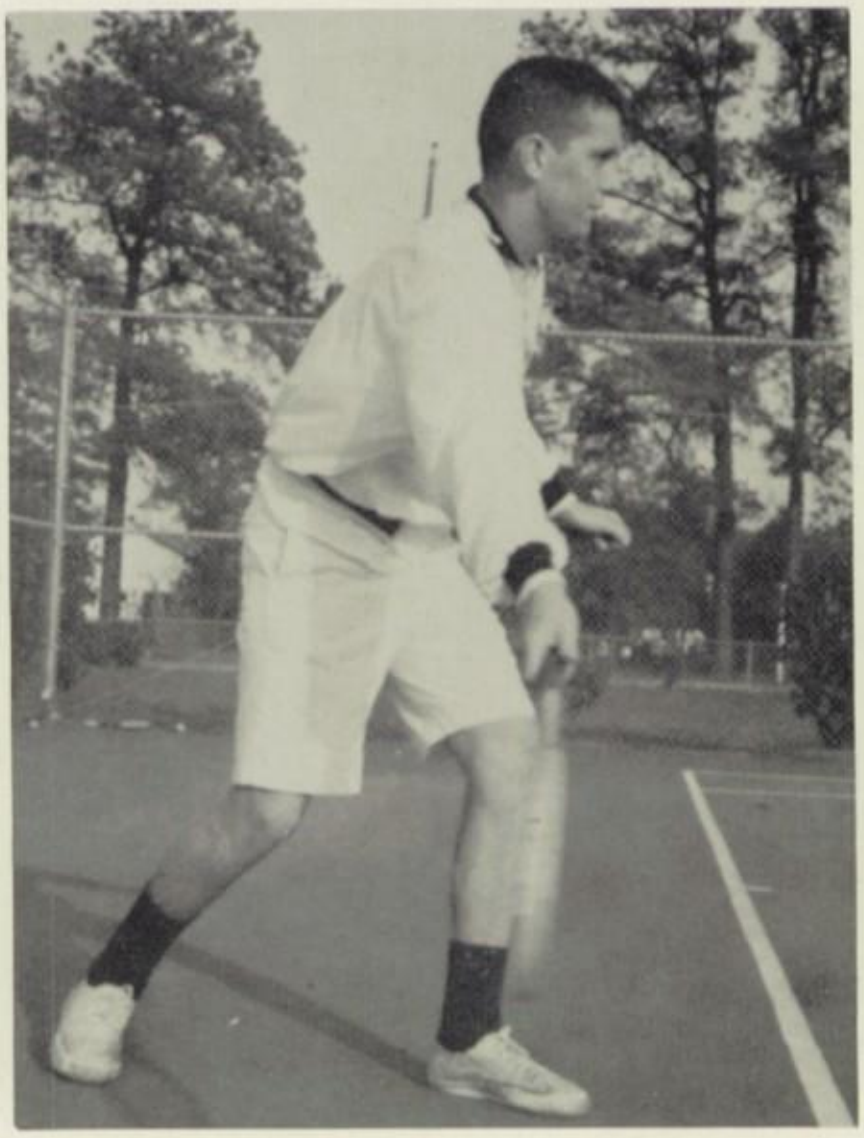
New Players Swell Size Of CHS Tennis Team

With the shadow of a losing season behind them, the 1964 tennis team began the year strengthened by experienced players who had discovered the value of learning through their mistakes. A crop of new boys not only boosted the size of the team to the largest in CHS history, but also reinforced it by contributing their individual skills to the team effort. Finally, a new coach, Mr. Lawyer, rounded out a combination that justifies an optomistic outlook for Churchland.

In a practice game with Frederick Military Academy, the Truckers were given their first opportunity to test their ability against a determined opponent, and six players displayed talents that were to place them among the leading CHS contenders—Charlie Jean, Milton Miller, Mike Young, Charles Glisson, Doug Brenner, and Jimmy Hawks. An intense interest, desire, and determination on the part of all the players have put this year's team well on its way to becoming a strong competitor in all its matches.

Returning a driving forehand shot, Charlie Jean prepares for the match with Norview.



Individual Achievement Is Featured By Means Of Honors And Awards

The Features section of The Trucker presents an outstanding example of individual achievement, for it includes many honors, accomplishments, and distinctions attained by CHS students. These include the Honor Society, the Senior Class Play, the Marshals, the Honor Graduates, and "These We Honor." Just as important is the fact that features present an opportunity for v a r i e t y at CHS. The Homecoming Game without a parade of floats or a court of beautiful girls would be just another game, and the school year would seem to lack something without the Miss Churchland Contest or proms. Features are an integral part of CHS life, and they should be encouraged for their importance to the individual.

Four Ideals Of Excellence Furthered By NHS

This year the National Honor Society has striven to extend its ideals of service, scholarship, character, and leadership throughout the school. In order to inform the student body about the importance of these ideals, the Honor Society has maintained the display case outside the main office. As a service to the school, the Honor Society sponsored several assembly programs, the highlights of which were the hootenannies given for the underclassmen and then for the upperclassmen. Recognizing scholarship among the student body, the Honor Society sent out honor roll letters for the first semester. In order that it might award a scholarship to one of its own members, the Honor Society maintained the coat check at all home basketball games as a means of raising money. Climaxing the year was the tapping ceremony of next year's members held in April, and the induction and reception held for them in May.

Parade Highlights Homecoming Festivities

One of the biggest events of the school year was the annual homecoming which highlighted CHS fall activities. Participation of the entire school began as the various clubs and organizations made floats that honored the returning classes of '39 and '54 and depicted the overall theme of characters and events found in nursery rhymes.

In addition, something new was added. For the first time in CHS history an afternoon parade was held. People turned out all along the route to catch a preview of the coming night's exhibition. This seemed to stimulate the onlookers, for that night the stadium hosted one of its largest crowds.

Then that evening at a pre-game parade, the homecoming court passed in review of the alumni and spectators.

Later at half-time, the bands of Churchland and Great Bridge combined to present a rousing program of Southern songs. At the conclusion of their performance the queen and maid-of-honor were announced, thus crowning the most delightful festivities for 1963.

Senior Superlatives Typify Class Of '64

Individual achievement in high school is attained in various ways—through participation in extra-curricular activities, studies, and team sports. Recognition of all these achievements reaches a climax during the senior year, for the accomplishments of each senior become a mirror in which other students, as well as parents and the faculty, see what twelve years of study and training have produced. As such, the members of the senior class, in retrospect, have one final chance to express their opinions and thoughts on their own individual accomplishments.

These superlatives were chosen by the most simple and democratic process, one which closely resembled Ancient Greek and Roman elections. Every member of the Senior Class voted secretly and for whomever he wished, for there were no nominations. Consequently, twenty-five Seniors were chosen who the majority felt were most representative of their ideal for each title.

The twelve senior superlatives represent not only the thoughts and opinions of the members of the senior class, but they also leave a record of what the Class of '64 believed about itself. Though many of the members of the senior class could have been chosen as senior superlatives, it is the students represented on these pages that typify the CHS Class of '64.

Mouse That Roared Draws Capacity Crowd

Mr. Gwin, in his fifth year as director of the Senior Class Play, studies the original broadway script for details.

With a cast of 35 under the direction of Mr. Gwin, the Senior Class Play proved to be a "roaring" success with its comic play The Mouse That Roared. The theme of the play was built around the small European country of Grand Fenwick and its need to improve its sagging financial status. The Duchy realized that its country's economy was in dire need of funds. Trying to solve this problem, the nation came up with the idea of declaring war on the United States and losing, for it knew how generous the USA always was to the losers. By a bit of irony and a million to one chance, Grand Fenwick defeated the USA.

Because of the work done by the senior class in building the sets, making the costumes and rehearsing the dialogue, the largest audience ever to view a CHS play came to see one of the most interesting phases of CHS life.

Tully Bascom, Chief Woodsman of Fenwick National Park, reprimands the impudent mouse for having scared the first visitors to the Duchy.

Linda Lemasters, assistant to the director, makes a last minute adjustment on the set.

Pondering the many crises that beset her Duchy, young Glorianna exhibits regal splendor.

STAGE CREW

Linda Holland, Billy Kirk, Wayne Luehrs, Bob Motley, Tommy Powell, Bill Proffitt, Tommy Swindell, Vivian Waters, Bob Conway.

The entire invasion force from Grand Fenwick, consisting of five infantrymen, prepares to attack the stone castles of New York City.

During a routine civil defense drill, Tom Mulligan radios in that an enemy with metal heads and supersonic weapons has just arrived in a foreign fishing boat.

"To the President, Congress, and People of the United States of America—Greetings" . . . and thus began Fenwick's Declaration of War against the USA.

While reading the unbelievable declaration of war from Grand Fenwick, the Secretary of State and his secretary chuckle over the contents.

"What have you idiots done to my hat?" rages General Snippet.

That's me!
Linda—
Always remember all our good times in Typing.
How could you forget! May happiness always be yours and may the future
be good to you!
Stay sweet—
Lynn

Anti-Dilutionist Count Mountjoy accuses Dilutionist David Benter of being dishonest in his scheme to raise the economy of the Duchy by adding water to "Pinot Grand Fenwick".

Linda,
Lots of

To a real
Girl. (illegible) sweet

(illegible) love ya,
Sandy

Sandy Bailey and Dickie Balderson, the runners-up, and Ricky Hill, Mr. Churchland, look on as the former title holder, Carole Britt, crowns the new Miss Churchland, Jody Swanson. By being presented with these titles, Jody and Ricky thus came to represent the typical CHS student.

Jody, Ricky Chosen Mr. And Miss Churchland

During the winter months one of the biggest events is the annual Mr. and Miss Churchland Contest sponsored by the Churchland Tri-Hi-Y.

Prior to the contest twenty-five girls and twelve boys were selected from the junior and senior classes.

From the twelve boys, all the students voted for their choice for Mr. Churchland. Even though these results were known several days in advance of the contest, the results were not announced to the students until that night.

The twenty-five girls that were chosen awaited the big night. Each girl modeled twice, once in sportswear and once in evening wear, before a panel of three judges who were picked at random from the community. In turn these judges selected five finalists who each answered a serious and humorous question. Miss Churchland was then picked on the basis of her poise, the answers to her questions, and personal attractiveness.

The contest was accentuated by several vocal groups from Churchland—the Triple Trio and the Men's Glee Club. These students provided musical entertainment during the breaks in the contest when the judges were making their decisions. Acting as Master of Ceremonies, Mr. Pat Blake gave introductions and at the end of the contest announced the winners.

Waiting nervously backstage, the contestants compare their thoughts before being judged in sportswear.

Jamie Parker takes her turn at answering the questions given to the semi-finalists.

The semi-finalists, Mel Wittig, Jody Swanson, Jamie Parker, Bonnie Broughton, and Sandy Bailey, make a final appearance before the judges leave to decide "Who Will Be Miss Churchland?"

Gold Tassels Mark 37 Senior Honor Grads

At graduation there are certain students who have the distinction of wearing gold tassels; these are the honor graduates. To be an honor graduate, the student must have maintained a straight "B" average in all of his high school years. This year over 14% of the seniors graduated with honors. Among these seniors, Churchland was fortunate enough to have three students, Bobby Jackson, Michele Loizzi, and Gwynne Ormsby, who maintained a perfect 4.0 average all through high school.

Not only was this one of the largest groups of honor graduates, but also there was something quite unusual about these students. Instead of the normal four years of high school, consideration of their grades began in the eighth grade, thus making a total of five years.

Also, this is the first class to qualify under the accelerated diploma. Over half of the honor graduates received this degree, marking the results of these outstanding students.

Outstanding Juniors Chosen As CHS Marshals

Churchland High School honors the outstanding members of its junior class by selecting them as Marshals. The students are chosen on the basis of their scholarship and leadership by the CHS faculty, who reviews the names of students presented to them. Upon approvement, the names are then sent before the members of the existing Marshals who vote for the students whom they feel should be the new Marshals. Twenty new Marshals are chosen each year. These students must have maintained a scholastic average of "B" throughout their first two high school years.

The Marshals' main job is to serve as official hosts at all school functions. Their first service came shortly after their selection; this was ushering at the Senior Class Play. Then, the SCA, with the help of the Marshals held a practice civil defense drill to perfect our protection system. The Marshals again appeared when they ushered at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. But the biggest was yet to come, for at the end of the school year they ushered at the baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies. This service helped to fill the occassion with all the dignity and seriousness that such a time demands, and it gave the twenty Marshals a final opportunity to honor the graduating seniors.

Honors And Awards Recognize Individual Merit

Honors at CHS come to those individuals who have achieved some degree of recognition in a special field of endeavor. Ranging from demonstration of outstanding athletic ability and musical achievement to scholastic excellence and school representation in various activities, honors and awards seek out those students who exert that extra effort required which sets the individual apart from the crowd and places him among the select few who have worked "above and beyond the call of duty." Along with being recognized for these honors and awards, the individual also acquires an inner satisfaction that he has attained a tangible reward for the many hours of "behind-the-scenes" preparation, practice, and devotion to an avowed goal.

Through this recognition, individuals who have attained honors and awards thus perpetuate the main ideal of a democratic society—the belief in the worth of the individual and his accomplishments.

Individuals Demonstrate A Constant Feeling Of Pride In Class Activity

Next in importance to pride in one's school is pride in one's class. This pride is exhibited in many ways—for instance, the enthusiastic way the classes try to outcheer each other at pep rallies. Each student is an important member of his class. Although he may seem insignificant when compared to the entire student body, that student's individual talents compose an integral part of his class and his school. Early in the fall, all the classes choose outstanding individuals whom they wish to represent their class as class officers. In this way, individuals in each class demonstrate the quality of leadership. In other ways, classes recognize scholastic, artistic, and athletic achievement.

"We Are Tuff, We've Got More, We're The Class Of '64!"

On September 5 the doors of Churchland High opened to a year that for the Class of '64 would remain a wonderful and proud memory.

The first day of school proved to be an especially exciting one, for the news spread quickly that the class rings had arrived, and by the end of the day each senior proudly displayed his symbol.

Studies occupied most of the time in these seniors' lives, but they all managed to attend the football games and spur the team on to a winning season.

The culminated efforts of the Senior Class resulted in the presentation of the play, The Mouse That Roared. The money received from this, along with the class dues, helped to finance their activities.

Seniors, with an eye toward the future, attended College Night and then in December struggled through College Boards.

The Christmas holidays proved to be a welcome vacation for the seniors but no sooner were they over than everyone was confronted with the mid-term exams. Studying and cramming were now at a height, for in the back of every senior's mind lay the question of college acceptance.

During spring senior activities reached a climax. In May the class was honored at the Junior-Senior Prom. The senior party served as a fitting social finale to that long-awaited Graduation Day.

Class Of '65 Eagerly Advances To Role Of Upperclassmen

A sense of elation filled the minds of all juniors as they entered the halls of CHS—upperclassmen at last.

A large part of the school's leadership was placed upon the juniors, for as upperclassmen they were expected to share not only in the privileges of school life but also in the enlarged responsibilities that these privileges entailed.

Studies became increasingly significant and more demanding of time and effort. Yet there were so many extra-curricular activities which began to consume much time. Participation in these clubs and sports came to play an ever-increasingly important role in each junior's life.

In clubs they had given two years of service so that they could now become an officer, and in sports there was that happy moment when they departed from the "baby" Truckers and joined the varsity squad.

Juniors, confronted with College Night, PSAT tests, National Merit tests, and then College Boards, began to realize that now they must start to make definite plans for their future.

Largest of all their responsibilities was the presentation of the Junior-Senior Prom. A means of honoring the graduating class, this project required considerable preparation and extensive work.

Finally there arrived the perfect climax to a wonderful year. Juniors ordered class rings and eagerly awaited next year.

Class Of '66, Older And Wiser, Assumes New Leadership Responsibilities

With a year of experience behind them, the Class of '66 returned to school for their second year. Foolish and yet wise, as their name indicates, were these new sophomores.

In the fall the class chose Sue, Wayne, Bobby, JoAnn, and Beth as class officers, and with Miss VanDyck as their sponsor they made plans for the coming year.

This was the year that they became true Truckers for now they joined clubs and participated in sports more individually than they had during their freshman year. As studies became more difficult and more time-consuming, the sophomores found that they had little time to spare.

In this their second year of school, the Class of '66 tightened its bonds of friendship. Cheering together at the pep rallies, they added a boost in school spirit.

As sophomores, they were introduced for the first time to the idea that now they must begin to think about their future. If they had plans to attend a college, now was the time to ask for guidance in this area; or rather if they intended to pursue a vocation, they now began to look into the work programs.

With May came the end to months of hard work on the class' biggest project of the year. The pains taken in preparation of this Freshman-Sophomore Prom made it an affair long to be remembered.

As spring came to Churchland, the SCA found an opportunity to increase its treasury by taking advantage of the warm weather and proclaiming a Bermuda Day. Having gladly paid a quarter for a license, these sophomores gather on the front steps before school to sign each other's annuals.

Matt Williams and Carl Vorhees purchase necessary school supplies from Mana Covington.

Johnny Ellis brings the ball down court against a frantic Cradock press led by Ray Pope.

Many New Activities Initiate Freshmen To Trucker Way Of Life

With the opening of school in September, the halls of CHS once again were filled with faces of students entering the most exciting four years of their lives. The Class of '67, the "green" freshmen, were a picture of bewilderment, anticipation, and excitement as each frosh roamed from room to room and hall to hall trying to look as if he belonged but unsure as to which way to turn. New courses, new faces, and new ways of doing things kept each of the freshmen constantly looking to each other to see exactly what the other was doing.

Conformity and the urge to be like all other Truckers began to play a vital part in each freshman's life. Joining clubs, dressing alike, participating in sports, enjoying the numerous extra-curricular activities, and spending several hours on the telephone discussing school studies and happenings began to assume an ever-increasing part of each freshman's daily routine.

Who can ever forget the awesome spectacle the language lab presented the first time it was used? Or the thrill that came with attending the season's first basketball and football game? Or the first time you felt that you were finally a real Trucker? Or the fun and excitement that planning and attending the Freshman-Sophomore Prom generated? All these and much more made each freshman a vital part of CHS.

FOUR AMERICAN NOVELS

Services Rendered By The Advertisers Assist The Individual's Needs

As rising members of an adult society, students more and more come into contact with the world of business. Each individual has his own particular needs and desires that can be fulfilled by this world, and his wishes have a great deal to do with the determining of our system of free enterprise. In fact, all business people cater to the individual.

Our advertisers are individuals in that the services they render and the products they sell are of superior quality. The belief of pride in service and excellence of goods is an American tradition that has brought success to American business. Our advertisers adhere to this principle, which is the reason that they are the most sought-after in Tidewater.

Linda,

It has been a lot of fun this year. Remember? Don't ever forget all the fun Paula, you & I have had this year while you were a mighty senior. I sure am sorry you're leaving us but you better come and see me OK? The best of luck to a real sweet girl.

Remember the fun at my birthday pajama birthday party. The trouble trying to get the Renault away from the house without my parents finding out and all the crazy stunts Pinkie pulled.

Well Linda I'll finally be a Junior next year at good ole Cradock. I guess I'll be never leave that school but really its the best school

The best of luck to your brother and his future wife. You'll be the next to be a Mrs around your house.

Have fun while your away from home and you better not come back single.

Thanks you for the charm you gave me on my sweet 16 birthday. It was real cute.

Be good and have a wonderful summer. Always remember your good buddy

Climax Of School Year Brings New Challenges Individuals Must Face

The end of the school year does not spell the end to the needs and desires of the individual. A new series of challenges confronts him, whether he plans to continue his education or he plans to enter the business world. His place in society still needs to be fullfilled, and it will largely depend on his character, partially shaped during his years in high school. However, the important thing to remember is that this individual will have a profound influence on our national life, for a nation is people, and people are individuals. He may be the inventor of a wonder drug, a Nobel Prize-winning novelist, or he may even be unknown, but one thing is certain: the advancement of civilization could not take place without him.

Linda
good luck and best wishes through the year to a sweet girl
